

Record Disproves Merrihew Claim For All Credit

Other People Had Something to Do With Furnishing Adequate Facilities When New York City Destroyed Town Highways—Why are New York's Assets in Ulster?

As a campaign argument in favor of Jacob V. Merrihew, the Democratic candidate for county treasurer, it is being urged that he and his sons were responsible for securing the construction of the Ashokan boulevard by the city of New York and its maintenance by that municipality.

The Ashokan boulevard has been in use for a number of years. While the Ashokan reservoir construction was in progress, most of the people of Ulster county were familiar with the various stages of the work, but as years passed the various proceedings have been forgotten, so in view of the last-minute campaign argument for Mr. Merrihew, it seems necessary to rectify some of the history of the case in order that voters may be familiar with the facts.

Every Section Protested.

The first step toward construction of the Ashokan reservoir and Catskill aqueduct in Ulster county was the action by the city of New York in making preliminary surveys. Then the city sought to have legislation passed by which it could appropriate what it wanted, and as the result of vigorous protests on the part of every section of Ulster county Governor Frank W. Higgins insisted on the creation of a state water supply commission which should have power to regulate the city of New York and every other municipality in the state which wanted to go outside its own boundaries to increase its water supply.

The result of Governor Higgins' action was the passage of three laws by the legislature of 1905, under one of which he appointed the state water supply commission, naming the late Hon. Charles Davis of Saugerties as the member from Ulster county.

The state water supply commission held numerous hearings, at the county house in this city, at which the county of Ulster, and every town that would be affected by construction of a huge water storage system was represented by attorneys, and most of the big business enterprises of the county which would be damaged also appeared and protested at the inadequate plan proposed by New York city. Other counties besides Ulster appeared at the hearing because New York city's plan covered many sections.

State Commission Demanded Justice.

The decision of the state water supply commission was that the city of New York must provide a plan that was more comprehensive than that contained in the bill passed by the legislature the previous year, for the protection of the different counties affected by the New York city plan.

After more legislation had been passed at Albany for the protection of every county that would be invaded by New York city, actual condemnation of land was begun and commissions were appointed, beginning in 1907. Contracts had been awarded by the New York board of water supply and actual construction was under way.

Among other plans filed by the board of water supply was a plan of substituted highways in different towns of Ulster county, which had been insisted on by Ulster and the other counties affected when hearings were first held before the state water supply commission in 1905.

New York city had been profuse in its promises before the state commission, but the state commission had insisted that the promises be put in definite form and that laws should be first adopted which would be a guarantee that the promises would be fulfilled.

City Bound by Court's Order.

After New York city's board of water supply had filed its plan for a substituted system of highways for Ulster county, as required, the matter came before Supreme Court Justice Wesley O. Howard who in an order dated March 13, 1908, provided "that the substituted route for highway purposes as shown on the aforesaid maps and described in such petition as amended, by the aforesaid descriptions, filed herewith be and the same is in all things approved, and it is further "Ordered, that the highways to be built and constructed by the city of New York on and over the said approved route shall be equal in every respect to those constructed by the state of New York in the county of Ulster, except as hereinafter provided."

"Ordered, that upon the completion of the said substituted highways the same shall be and hereby are dedicated to the use of the public forever for highway purposes, it being understood that the fee of the land shall remain in the city of New York."

The same order appointed, Sidney Harris of New York city, C. Gordon Reed of Kingston and Dr. James F. McKenna of Troy commissioners of the board to determine the compensation to be made to any party who may be injured by reason of the highways herein substituted.

Lasky Loses Priceless Liquor

Thieves Car. It Away in Trucks After Locking Watchmen in Cars—And It Was Not Insured, Says Mrs. Lasky.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Oct. 29.—No trace has been found of the almost priceless stock of liquor owned by Jesse L. Lasky, the motion picture magnate, and stolen last night from a car in the Pennsylvania freight yard. The liquor was in a car loaded with furniture, art works, silverware, etc., shipped from Hollywood to Lasky's new home on Hollywood and a quantity of silverware was also stolen. The liquor was shipped lawfully under proper permit and had cost $10,000 in per-war days. Its value now is beyond computation.

"Oh, really, it was a pity," mourned Mrs. Lasky last night. "It was all pre-war stuff. There were such fine wines and champagnes and coddies and such good liquors that one could get before the war. The stock was worth at least $10,000 in pre-war days and such things one can't get today. And it was not insured."

Arrangements had been made with the West End Storage Company for its transfer to the Fifth Avenue home. About noon on Tuesday three vans of the storage company drove into the yard to get the shipment. It was just at the time when most of the employees about the station had gone out for their lunch. A lone detective was standing guard near the car and the clerk charged with the responsibility of releasing shipments to drivers was hidden in a little shack at the eastern end of the yard.

Three or four masked men leaped upon the drivers with drawn pistols, showed the detective and a drayman who was opening the door of an empty box car nearby and locked them in. Then they went in a leisurely way about the work of removing the liquors and silverware, driving off with the booty just one hour later. What happened to the other storage company workers is but one of the mysteries the police are trying to clear up.

Changes in K. H. S. Line-up

It will be an entirely rejuvenated grid outfit that takes the field for Kingston High School Saturday afternoon against the St. Stephen's Freshman team. Coach O'Leary is greatly displeased over the showing of his varsity so far this season and consequently there will be many changes made in the first eleven before the week is out.

The local mentor will start the greater part of his re-called second team this Saturday and in addition to this change he has introduced entirely new playing tactics. Also many of the men on the varsity were injured in last Saturday's conflict at Port Jervis. The Tri-City machine seemed to take a special delight in trampling the local outfit last week, for no less than four of the K. H. S. eleven are nursing injuries.

It is a certainty that Don Flick, the local quarterback, will be out of the game with the Saints this week. Flick, formerly wrenched his shoulder in the game for a week or so. Wats, Leverett and Rider are also suffering minor injuries and it is doubtful whether they will be in shape for Saturday's contest.

As the battle with the Annandale outfit is not a Duso League match John Byrne of last year's eleven will play one of the tackles. Because of his husky makeup Byrne will make a strong addition to the team. Although still attending High School Byrne is ineligible for the league games because of having graduated.

The St. Stephen's eleven has been beaten by the N. Y. U. Freshman, the N. Y. M. A. second team and last week were also defeated by the Newburgh varsity.

WARTBURG ORPHANS' BAND CONCERT TONIGHT

Dand concert of the Wartburg Orphans' Home of Mount Vernon, N. Y., will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the basement of Trinity Lutheran Church, Spring and Howe streets. The Rev. William H. Fretsch, pastor. A silver offering will be taken. The head will be entertained over night in the homes of church members. In the morning several autos will motor them to the reservoir, leaving there for Saugerties where a lunch at noon will welcome them. They are booked to play there Friday evening under the auspices of the Lutheran Church in Saugerties. The Rev. F. Herah, pastor.

Freighter Arrived

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Oct. 29.—The ten thousand ton freighter, Robert Lockhart, partially loaded with lumber, went aground in the lower bay today when she attempted to round a bend into a mud bank near Hobbs' Reef, South Brooklyn. The freighter was not damaged and an attempt will be made to refloat her as high tide this evening.

Ulster County Red Cross Annual Meeting

All Officers of Executive Committee Are Re-elected—Treasurer's Report Shows $2,960.58 as Balance on Hand June 30, 1925—Other Reports.

The annual meeting of the Ulster County Chapter of the American Red Cross was held at the Y. M. C. A. on Wednesday afternoon, President Delaney N. Mathews presiding. The following report of the secretary of the Home Service Section was read by Mrs. Hasbrouck, accepted and ordered placed on file:

Report submitted by the secretary of the Home Service Section, Ulster County Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Mr. Chairman:

I submit the seventh annual report of the Home Service Section of the Ulster County Chapter of the American Red Cross. This report includes all work accomplished since our last annual meeting, held on October 22, 1924.

From October 22, 1924, to October 28, 1925, we report as follows:

Visits made to families of ex-service men 25

Office calls from disabled men or their families 128

Letters received and sent 355

Compensation claims made out, affidavits drawn up, discharges copied, bonus blanks filled out, and other forms secured 30

Telegraph and telephone messages received and sent 20

Life Saving Certificates and insignia given out to members of Life Saving Corps 20

(This includes seven boys, and four girls.)

Number of girls who have passed the swimming tests given by Miss Irene Redman, Health Education Secretary of the Y. W. C. A. and Red Cross Life Saving Examiner. 16

Total number of times assistance has been given in these different ways 574

On November 14, 1924, the Chapter shipped 40 sweaters, 30 caps and 25 helmets to National Headquarters in Washington, D. C. These articles were made during the summer of 1924 for ex-service men in government hospitals, in response to a call from Washington, D. C., for such garments. Forty-eight pairs of pajamas were also shipped at that time.

In December, 1924, Christmas cheer was given in several ways. The Legion doll sale was aided by the Chapter, as voted upon at the last annual meeting. Gifts of money totaling $70, was given to five different families of needy ex-service men. Baskets of food and fruit were given to six families; gifts of sweaters to several men; and packages of Christmas magazines sent to six ex-service men hospitals.

In May 1925, an appropriation of $50 was made for the "Minnie Hotel Fund," Albany Association of the Blind, a sale was held in this city; articles were purchased with the money appropriated, and given to the needy poor.

On March 21, 1925, this Chapter was directed by Judge John Barton Payne, National Chairman at Washington, D. C., to give publicity to the appeal for help from the Red Cross for the tornado victims of the Middle Western States and to receive contributions for the fund. Posters were immediately ordered, and through the courtesy of Miss Barton, they were promptly distributed throughout the city. Appeals were also made through the local papers. This Chapter appropriated $250 from its treasury, check for same being forwarded to National Headquarters by the treasurer, on March 28, 1925. The Saugerties Branch of the Chapter also appropriated $150 from their treasury.

Mr. Roberts, manager of Keeney's Theater, very generously offered to put on a benefit for the fund, which netted $757.11. This, with contributions from several local societies, and private contributions, totaled $1,892.11, as the Ulster County Chapter's contribution to the fund.

Our regular annual quota of twenty Christmas boxes has recently been shipped to service men in the Canal Zone; these boxes contain many small comforts for the men stationed so far from home, who could otherwise receive no recognition of the day.

In September a call was received from Washington, D. C., for 25 crates, the quota for this Chapter, to men in Government Hospitals; these crates are being made by local Red Cross workers who are working on the quota made in the month. The work is furnished by the Chapter.

Early in July, we were directed by the National Headquarters to ship 100 Life Saving Certificates from New York Headquarters to the Ulster County Chapter. These certificates were to be given to members of the Chapter who had completed a course in life saving instruction. The Chapter has been very successful in this regard, having secured a quota of 100 certificates from the Chapter.

League Council Delays Action

Greece and Bulgaria Accuse Each Other of Hampering Peaceful Withdrawal—Greece Protests Order of Mutual Evacuation.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Paris, Oct. 29.—The council of the League of Nations, investigating the border trouble between Greece and Bulgaria, postponed activities today until an evening meeting. The report of the military commission designated to look into the outbreak was waited with interest.

Although representatives of both nations at the last session gave assurances that their troops had complied with the council's order to cease hostilities and retire from occupied territory, advisers reaching Paris did not make it certain that the belligerents' actions backed up their expressed intentions.

Each accused the other of continued attacks and of hampering a peaceful withdrawal.

Athens, Oct. 29.—Greece has protested to the League of Nations council against the order for mutual evacuation of territory, stating that it is impossible to withdraw the Greek troops within the time limit set, which expires today.

Greek authorities have also notified the League council that their occupation is not for purposes of conquest but merely to protect Greek interests and force a withdrawal of Bulgarian troops from Greek territory.

$4,000 Verdict Against Belo

At 9:30 o'clock Wednesday evening the jury which heard the evidence in the action brought by Olde A. Broghio of West Park against Antonio Belo of New York for $25,000 for alienation of his wife's affections, arrived at an agreement and reported to Supreme Court Justice Hasbrouck. The verdict was for $4,000 for plaintiff.

Plaintiff contended that Belo, a sculptor and artist who has a place of business on First avenue, New York city, and who resides in Long Island City, had by making costly presents and by offering a career of life and luxury to his wife enticed her away from him. Mrs. Broghio however never left her husband although for a time she worked in New York city and later when she came to her West Park home she remained apart from her husband for several months.

Judge John G. Van Etten and Andrew J. Cook appeared for plaintiff and Ernst M. Garbe and Newton H. Fessenden appeared for the defendant.

Wednesday afternoon the case went to the jury. During Wednesday's session the case progressed slowly as Belo and his son were both examined through Interpreter Joseph Brenna.

The question of the interpretation of a letter written by Belo to Mrs. Broghio in 1924 was finally settled when Mr. Belo was asked to interpret it. There was one word in the postscript which the interpreters could not agree on. Michael De Cicco who appeared for the plaintiff and Joseph Brenna who appeared for the defendant acted as court interpreter differed as to the meaning of the word. The crossing of a letter "T" was questioned as to whether it was not the letter "R" which would have made a different meaning. Mr. Belo testified that it was a "T" and the word was "festival." The postscript stated that Belo had not been able to visit Mrs. Broghio at the time of some festival.

SALPAS IS FINED $50 FOLLOWING COLLISION

A Buick truck driven by Peter Salpas of the Indian, license number X97663 was in collision with the car of Elmer Ackerman of 78 Downs street at "dead man's curve" near Boiceville. Cornelius F. Elmer of 145 Janes avenue, who was with Ackerman was slightly injured.

Wednesday Salpas was arrested by Sergeant Cunningham and Trooper Cones charged with operating a motor vehicle without a license and also with reckless driving. After a hearing Salpas was fined $50 under each charge.

Killed in Auto Mishap

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 29.—Mrs. E. M. Lumbard, 60, Hillsboro N. E. was killed and her husband was seriously injured when their automobile in Indiana, Pa., was struck by a Chesapeake and Ohio train and demolished. The body of Mrs. Lumbard and the injured man were brought to Richmond today. A son, L. P. Lumbard, of Frederick, Md., was notified.

Schirick Works; Van Etten Leads, For Judgeship

Clever Manipulation Removes or Compels Competitors to Work for Judge Van Etten Who Has Quietly Taken Control of County Democracy.

An unintentional error made The Freeman on Wednesday state that Judge Harry E. Schirick had resigned as judge of the city court, sacrificing himself on the altar of expediency, while it was intended to be stated that he had declined re-nomination shortly before the Democratic convention at which he was confronted with the problem of supplying meal tickets to the delegates. Judge Schirick is still dispensing justice in the city court and will continue to do so until the end of the year when his term expires. After that he will be at liberty to devote his entire time to making plans for securing the Democratic nomination for Supreme court judge next year.

Strange Hold on Nomination.

But while Judge Schirick is performing his duties as city judge and using his shears as county chairman and state committeeman in clipping thorns for the Democratic rose bush, Judge John G. Van Etten is getting a strange hold on the nomination which now seems to have but slight chance of getting away from him. The most pleasing part of the prospect is that the battle up to this time has not cost Judge Van Etten much money. When it comes to using printing shears, he is also much more expert than any of his competitors because he is a practical agriculturist. His various farms show that it is just as easy to get wealth from the soil as from politics if only nature is allowed to take her course after scientific methods have been applied.

Making Nature Work For Him.

Nature—of the human variety—is helping Judge Van Etten nicely in growing the judgeship nomination. He is entitled to all the credit for what the candidates produce in the way of election results, and as heretofore pointed out in The Freeman, he is running the campaigns of Jacob V. Merrihew for county treasurer and Morris Block for mayor, is managing the campaigns of Democratic candidates for supervisor and alderman and displaying a liberal pocketbook and fund of advice that are both eagerly sought by deserving but hungry Democrats.

Even his competitors in the fight for the nomination for Supreme court judge are helping Judge Van Etten, and whatever results they accomplish will be added to the crop of glory already harvested. Democrats can point out, for instance, that Judge Schirick as county chairman and state committeeman is bound to work hard for votes on election day, but the man who really can claim credit for the votes in the fight to oust Judge Roscoe Irwin from control of the county Democracy. In that war, Judge Van Etten not only removed a dangerous competitor but created a vacancy in the limelight into which Judge Schirick could be placed. That move was just as good as for a player in a card game to have two aces dealt to him. After placing Judge Schirick in the limelight, it was apparent that the judge must sacrifice personal ambition for the good of the party and of Judge Van Etten, and that was equivalent to a third ace. Any other action would be evidence of ingratitude.

Tied Judge Jenkins's Hands

Judge Jenkins's position as corporation counsel under Mayor Block and as treasurer of the Democratic county committee removed him from the field of active competition temporarily, for in both positions he would be required to sacrifice personal ambition for the good of the party and of Judge Van Etten, and that was equivalent to a third ace. Any other action would be evidence of ingratitude.

While rain and hail fell in this city on Wednesday evening, snow fell in the Catskills. Parties coming from Poughkeepsie and other sections of Greene county, and from up along the U. & D. railroad, reported that snow fell for nearly an hour, the ground being covered.

Broadhead's Car Recovered

Gilboa Dam On the Move

Big Structure Built of Inferior Material And Will Not Stand Still—New Engineering Problem Presented.

The great clay dike and concrete core wall running from the western end of New York city's new $6,800,000 Gilboa Dam, the construction of which wiped out the ancient village of Gilboa, N. Y., have moved two inches from their original position along a length of approximately 150 feet at the higher points of the embankment, according to the New York Times. Should there be a further movement no water will be turned into the Schoharie Reservoir until some remedy, not yet even figured out, shall have been discovered and applied. The clay material of which the dike is composed is not the best, but was used because no better was available.

These admissions were made yesterday by Fred P. Moore, Acting Chief Engineer of the New York City Board of Water Supply and designer of the Gilboa Dam, which he hopes to have in readiness for the opening of the Schoharie Reservoir soon after the first of next year. At the same time it was disclosed that the evident movement of the dike, which has been going on over a period of many months, necessitated the flattening of its slope as a corrective measure. This, decided upon about June 1 last, took four and one-half months and required a force of about 175 men, forty teams and eight trucks working night and day at a cost of about $210,000 above the contract figure of $6,800,000.

Should it become necessary to take further corrective measures, the total cost of the dam, said to have reached already to close around $7,000,000, will be increased materially. Observation of the movement of the dike has been going on some time and is being continued.

There is, as yet, no evidence that the movement has stopped, although it has been so gradual that the engineers would have to wait some time before they could be certain that the dike and wall had become absolutely stationary.

The construction work is being done by the Hugh Nawn Contracting Company under the direction of engineers of the Board of Water Supply and under the local supervision of engineers of the local board of water supply. The work is being done by the Hugh Nawn Contracting Company under the direction of engineers of the Board of Water Supply and under the local supervision of engineers of the local board of water supply.

Mr. Moore, who objected to the movement being referred to as a "slipping" or a "slide" of the embankment, said it was not serious enough to cause any alarm, although he admitted measurements had been taken for a number of months to show its extent. The contracting company, he declared, was in no sense responsible, as it was doing merely what it was told to do by the engineers. He added that he considered no one to blame, as the movement was due solely to the quality of the clay in the embankment.

Reid Scores With New Motion

Reid summed up his arguments for moving to "strike out" all the charges against Mitchell. Colonel Sherman Moreland, judge advocate, defended the technicalities of the charges.

The eight specifications against Mitchell that the generals held did not violate his constitutional guarantees of "free speech" were based on two statements given the press at San Antonio by the flying colonel last September.

That Reid had scored with his new motion was evidenced when Colonel Winslow, the court's law adviser, asked why the judge advocates "did not point out what part of the (Mitchell's) statements constituted conduct prejudicial to military discipline."

"We thought of doing that," Moreland replied, "but we decided it would be better for the court to decide that."

Reid's charge that army rules were violated because no investigation was made by Mitchell's commander before the court martial was ordered also was taken up.

"Why was this not done?" General McCoy asked Moreland.

Well, he began hesitating, the president appointed the court martial. He has the right to refer the charges to any one to investigate the case I suppose it was because Colonel Mitchell, when these charges were filed, had no commanding officer of the type referred to in the army manual."

Mitchell Loses Second Round In His Battle

Jury Overrules Pleas to Try Mitchell for Criticizing His Superiors Was Taking Away His Constitutional Rights of Free Speech.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, Oct. 29.—Colonel William Mitchell lost the second round of his battle against the tradition and custom "today" when the jury of nine generals that is trying him for "conduct prejudicial to good order and military discipline" overruled his plea that to try him for criticizing his superiors was taking away his Constitutional rights of "free speech."

The "jury of generals" sustained an opinion rendered earlier by Colonel Blanton Winslow, law member of the court, who held that the court was within its powers in trying Mitchell.

With a meticulous regard for "real tape" Winslow and the "jury of generals" ruled separately on each of the eight specifications set forth in the court martial citation against Mitchell. The court upheld all of Winslow's rulings.

"Under the thirty-first article of war, the court announces that the opinion of the law member is made the ruling of the court and stands as such," General Howze announced.

The reply of the defense was to strike down at the authority of the court but from a different angle. A plea charging the court martial was ordered in an irregular manner was made by Representative Frank H. Reid, Republican of Illinois, chief of Mitchell's civilian counsel. He contended that the commander of the accused did not recommend the court martial and "that the charges were filed by an officer of inferior rank to Mitchell." Both of these acts, Reid said, made the court martial null and void.

Reid also challenged the specifications filed by the war department against the flying colonel. He declared the specifications "did not set out any discredits or neglect, prejudicial to military discipline."

It took the jury of generals but a few minutes to throw out Mitchell's unauthorized defense of "free speech" and to decide that they were eminently qualified by law and tradition to pass upon Mitchell's conduct.

It had been a foregone conclusion that the court would so decide. To Lankment, said it was not serious enough to cause any alarm, although he admitted measurements had been taken for a number of months to show its extent. The contracting company, he declared, was in no sense responsible, as it was doing merely what it was told to do by the engineers. He added that he considered no one to blame, as the movement was due solely to the quality of the clay in the embankment.

Antique Clock Moved at Last

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Philadelphia, Oct. 29.—The "Rittenhouse Clock," one of the most famous clocks in the country, and the prized possession of the Drexel Institute here, was moved recently to the main floor of the museum.

The clock was the last and great effort of David Rittenhouse, famous astronomer and mathematician. He was the first director of the United States mint at Philadelphia.

On account of the high cost to have this famous timepiece repaired it is not working now. It has been estimated that to put the clock in working order the expenditure would be greater than its original cost, which was about $700.

The clock was made before the Revolutionary War by Rittenhouse for Joseph Potts, a wealthy man, who it is said sold it to Thomas Prior, shortly before the evacuation of Philadelphia in 1778 by the British.

General Sir William Howe for 120 guineas. When Prior died in 1801, the clock became the property of Professor Barton, of the Drexel Institute, the biographer of Rittenhouse.

George W. Childs purchased it from James Swann in October, 1870. Childs presented the clock to the Drexel Institute in 1898.

There is attached to the mechanism of a musical clock—sixteen sets of chiming—besides an accurate pendulum, placed on its face above the dial plate.

The clock stands nine feet high and two feet fifteen inches deep. The clock records the time by second, minute, hour and day, shows the position of the moon and the stars and has other smaller contrivances for recording time.

One-Control Set Is Very Popular

Nutty Natural History

By HUGH HUTTON.

THE HIGHLAND HOOTMONGOOSE

This curious creature can be heard hooting during the evening in the mountainous regions of Scotland. The young hootmongoose is born with these trousers, so it is not forced to wear kilts like the Scotchman whose feet are too big to go through trouser legs. The hootmongoose goes hunting for the Farthing the Scottish peasant, with untiring zeal. When a Farthing is cornered, the hootmongoose strangles it and puts it in its hip pocket. Dead hootmongoses have been found with as many as 800 Farthings in their hip pockets. Here is a young one out on his first Farthing hunt.

He has a silbert body, a peanut head, split almond tail, macaroni trousers, toothpick legs, and almond shell feet. His bill is a sawed off split peanut, and the topknot is the ball from a clove.

Finds Source of Pain

Vagant aches and pains which often afflict the stomach and are hard to identify may now be accurately located and classified by an instrument resembling a miniature seismograph. The device with which earthquake tremors are recorded, according to Popular Mechanics Magazine, the pain under, devised by Dr. W. C. Alvarez of the University of California, is said to register the course of such ills in almost any part of the abdomen and to clearly reveal every step of the digestive processes. By the recorder, the passage of food through the digestive tract can be closely followed, and the exact spot and instant of the setting up of any trouble definitely learned in a few minutes. The instrument, called the multiple-electro-entograph, is said to obtain its data by means of a pendulum swung in a vacuum tube and marks its records with a needle.

Nutmegger Gentlemen

Salesmen calling on the hardware trade and selling wholesale only in the state of Connecticut, have organized themselves into an association. They named themselves "The Nutmeggers." Their purpose is to jealously guard the ethics of their craft, their moral standing in the community and to boost the hardware business. They will endeavor to give new and young men in the field a lift and teach them the unvarnished laws of their profession. Here is their slogan: "A Nutmegger will always be a gentleman."—Good Hardware.

Tadpoles Kept Young

Scientists at the Johns Hopkins Medical school have found the fountain of perpetual youth, but so far only tadpoles are permitted to drink of its magic waters. When frog eggs were hatching at the laboratory, before the tadpole was developed fully, the anterior lobe of a certain gland in the brain was cut away. With this gone the thyroid gland does not develop normally and the tadpole remains the has two sections, each .0005 mfd. capacity. It is preferable to leave three-quarter-inch space between L1 and L2, with only three-quarters inch between L2 and L3.

Winding in Same Direction.

All windings are in the same direction. Considering L1, the terminal (1) goes to aerial, (2) to ground, (3) to the G post of AFT1 and (4) to the grid of the reflexed tube, No. 1. The plate of this tube goes to (1) of L3, while (2) is connected to the P post of AFT2. Join (3) to the cathode of the crystal, if an adjustable crystal is used, otherwise to the low side (G) of a fixed crystal like the carbonium, which is quite voluminous. The other L4 terminal (4) goes to the G post of AFT1. This same lead is connected to the rotor of the tuning condenser. The stators of this condenser go to (4) of L2 and (3) of L4. The phase reversal in tube No. 1 is negative by the reversal obtained in L1L2. Note that the coupling transformer L3L4 has fields-aiding.

High Wave Regeneration, Single Circuit Hookups

A kink for high wave regeneration with single circuit sets is here outlined. On a great many of these sets, the regeneration or ability to oscillate ends about midway of the wave length range. One very good remedy is to place a fixed condenser between .00025 and .005 from the ground to the ticker circuit at the point where plate coil connects to the P terminal of the audio transformer or to the phones.—Radio Digest.

RADIO WAVES

Local stations may be shut out with a loose-coupled tuner.

A covered wire is no better than a bare wire for a ground.

Soldering lugs should be used under every terminal in the set.

To experiment with all fresh hookups is an expensive hobby.

A good aerial system should have a bright, clean surface throughout.

The life of batteries is lengthened when connected in series parallel.

Solder flows more readily if the iron is wiped frequently on a wooden rag.

Simple, tight mechanical connections are better than poorly soldered ones.

Working in Stucco

Stucco work was known to the ancients and was much prized by them, particularly by the Romans who excelled in it. It was revived by D'Urbino about the year 1550; and in Italy, France, and England in the eighteenth century.

SEND CAPT. KRAFT to the ASSEMBLY

Captain William R. Kraft, business man of Kingston, veteran of the World War, has been placed in nomination for the Member of Assembly. We, his friends and admirers, representing both political parties, urge upon the people of the county his fitness for the office and urge that he be supported at the polls on November 3. He is a young man, clean and aggressive, and well informed on the matters that are of concern to the people of this county and of the state. He is educated and trained. He was one of the first of the Ulster County Boys to get into the Service when Our Country was at war, one of the first to be sent "Over There", and on the Other Side he was trusted with important duties, and Made Good. He was in France more than 14 months. HE SERVED US IN WAR. WE WANT HIM TO SERVE US IN PEACE.

And, in the Assembly, we know he will prove as good a representative as he was a soldier, in the A. E. F. Having confidence in him, we ask all voters to seriously consider his candidacy and to vote to send him to the Assembly, on Election Day.

HE WILL SERVE PEOPLE FAITHFULLY

Wm. R. KRAFT, Com.

Confidence

Art has been aptly defined as "the expression of man's joy in his work."

Advertising may be defined as the expression of the advertiser's confidence in himself.

The merchant or the manufacturer who spends money for newspaper space has faith in his goods and in his service.

Read the advertisements with this thought in mind.

Count every newspaper advertiser as one who offers something for your convenience, your comfort or your service, with firm confidence that his offerings will find favor with you.

New Soviet Stamps.
By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Moscow, Oct. 29.—Two series of postage stamps printed in Esperanto have just been authorized by the Commissariat of Posts and Telegraphs. They are in honor of the Russian physicist, Popoff, and bear the inscription, "To the radio inventor, Popoff." One issue is of 7 kopecks, in light blue, and the other of 11 kopecks, in light green.

THE AMENDMENTS

Do not fail to vote on the proposed amendments to the State Constitution. It is easy to remember how to vote.

If you oppose saddling huge bond issues on the state, vote "No" on Amendment No. 1 and Amendment No. 2.

If you approve of having fewer and more efficient office holders in the state vote "Yes" on Amendment No. 3.

If you approve of a reorganization of the courts in order to make them more efficient vote "Yes" on Amendment No. 4.

To sum it up, vote "No" on the first two propositions and "Yes" on the last two.

COMMENDING DEMOCRATS.

There is no better proof of the fact that civilization is advancing than is furnished by the change in political comment. Less than a generation ago political partisans believed it to be their duty always to commend everyone and everything within their own party and to condemn everyone and everything within the opposite party. Nowadays it is customary to discuss facts dispassionately and to give praise where it is due although the Democratic party still clings to with multiple obstinacy to out-of-date methods which began to wane toward the end of the last century.

The Democratic party in Ulster county is to be commended, however, for its choice for district attorney, for on primary day it nominated Frederick G. Traver while enrolled Republicans at the same time were making him their nominee after having selected him unanimously at their county convention more than a month before. District Attorney Traver was not a candidate for re-nomination. He is serving his third term and through the unanimous choice of the voters next Tuesday he will enter upon his fourth term on the first of January.

The criminal work of Ulster county has become greater each year in the last quarter of a century so that now the entire time of the district attorney is taken up with the duty not only of prosecuting crime but in most cases of conducting the preliminary investigations for the purpose of avoiding unnecessary, useless and costly proceedings. The latter work is the province of officials charged with the police work of the county, city and towns, but the experience and training of Mr. Traver make him far more expert in detecting crime than the man who is doing that work only occasionally. Ulster county is fortunate in having such an official and the Democratic party is to be commended for having exercised common sense in following the Republican lead of choosing him for this important office.

DECLINE OF PENMANSHIP.

An editorial writer for a metropolitan newspaper notes that "with all the volume of typewritten literature that pours forth from millions of desks every day, with signatures identified only by typewritten interpellations, we seem to have lost the personality which the pen had in the hands of men before the typewriter came both to bless and curse us." The editor quoted recalls that George Washington, in the midst of his cares and preoccupations, found time to write most of his own letters, often letters of the greatest importance, and that his handwriting was always legible and an admirable production in itself.

The same may be said of the average distinguished writer of later days down to the period of the great Victorian novelists and even after them. The manuscripts of Thackeray, Dickens and Hawthorne in the library of J. Pierpont Morgan are highly interesting for this as well as for other reasons. Dickens' handwriting wobbles a good deal, the ink flows too freely at points, and there are passages which must have troubled the typewriter. Hawthorne's is center as well as wobbly, and Thackeray's "Tautly Fair" is almost a model of neatness and legibility. Previous generations practiced penmanship because it was imperative. Now slovenliness and illegibility are almost the rule, and often even a matter of pride apparently, in signatures and autograph letters. It is only too true that the typewriter has cursed as well as blessed us.

INACTION.

Some years ago the grape growing industry was threatened with serious loss, because it was thought that the grape stones were the cause of appendicitis.

When an appendix was removed a small hard object about the size of a grape stone was sometimes found inside it. This little stone was supposed to have irritated the wall of the little appendix sack and thus started the inflammation.

An appendicitis occurred in people who never saw or ate grapes, this idea of the cause of appendicitis passed out of existence.

Then a little later appendicitis was thought to be due to some infection from some particular organism that got into the blood, and finally seized upon the appendix as a good site in which to start an inflammatory process. However, research men found all sorts of different organisms in the appendix, with all degrees of inflammation from the same organism. One of our recent investigators now finds that the organisms found in cases of acute infection are practically the same as found in the intestine in health.

However the point he emphasizes is that these organisms were found deep seated in the living of the appendix, away from where real surgical action would be taking place. In other words he is of the opinion that if the intestine were moving its contents along vigorously then the appendix would be emptied vigorously also. Your physician will tell you that in examining cases of chronic appendicitis by the test meal, that there is usually some "delay" in the region of the appendix, that is before, at, or just beyond the appendix.

Now of course there may be mechanical obstructions of some kind due to injuries, to previous attacks of appendicitis, leaving scars of fibrous tissue, but the majority of cases will give a history of constipation, or slowness of intestinal action, or considerable gas formation in the intestines, and so forth. Your best protection against appendicitis is a well educated intestine, attained by regular habits, proper foods, and some daily exercise.

TUBERCULOSIS CONFERENCE TO BE WELL REPRESENTED

Not since the remarkable tuberculosis conference in Albany in 1910 when President Taft, Governor Hughes and the Hon. Joseph H. Choate were among the speakers under the auspices of the State Committee on Tuberculosis and Public Health of the State Charities' Aid Association, has a similar state-wide meeting been called which promises to equal in importance the "New York Tuberculosis and Health Conference," scheduled for New York City, November 19 and 20, at the Hotel Biltmore and the Academy of Medicine.

The official groups and voluntary health agencies under whose auspices the great conference will be held, a decade and a half after the Albany meeting, are the New York State and City Departments of Health, the Milbank Memorial Fund, the State Charities' Aid Association, and the New York City Tuberculosis and Health Association.

Representatives from every county and city tuberculosis and health association in the state have been invited to the conference. The speakers' list contains the names of many leading health authorities who are members of the Advisory Council for the health demonstrations in Cattaraugus county, Syracuse and New York city, that have been undertaken by the Milbank Memorial Fund.

POLHEMUS FOR POLICE JUSTICE IN ESOPUS TOWN

The Rev. Cornelius H. Polhemus was prevailed upon to accept the Republican nomination for police justice of the town of Esopus when the nominee of the town convention withdrew. For that reason many persons are not aware that Mr. Polhemus is the candidate of his party for this important office. He is making an active canvass and there is every reason to believe he will be elected. Mr. Polhemus is a clergyman of the Reformed Church, a former professor of Greek in a college, a scholar and a gentleman of intelligence and fairness in all things. For a number of years he has been a successful farmer, located along the main highway south of Port Jervis village. Mr. Polhemus is a thinker, not a maker of empty noises, and fully capable of filling the office of police justice honestly and efficiently.

150 YEARS AGO

The Origin of the U. S. A.

By Jonathan A. Rawson, Jr.

ENEMIES AT HOME.

The American War for Independence was two wars in one. Besides the conflict between the colonies and Great Britain, there was a bitter civil war within the colonies. The division in this civil war was between those who were fighting for justice from Great Britain and those who believed that the old relationship with the parent country should be continued.

The latter group, by no means inconsiderable in numbers, known both as Tories and as Loyalists (loyal to the king, not to the colonies), were not quiet, inactive observers of the situation. They organized no army of their own, but here and there in small groups, and everywhere as individuals, they were ever alert to thwart the plans of the patriots. Whole books, and large ones at that, have been written about their activities which extended throughout the war and which were spread over the entire area of the thirteen colonies. To get a clear understanding of the situation of 150 years ago, assume that we were now at war with a powerful European nation, and that perhaps one-third of our people were rabid partisans of that nation, bitterly opposed to all plans for defense against the enemy, and ready to aid that enemy in any way within their power.

Though the Tories organized no army throughout the colonies, they here and there joined the king's forces in large numbers. In the early stages of the war they convined actively and openly with Dunmore and Tryon, the royal governors of Virginia and New York, to break up the patriot organization. Always and everywhere they served most efficiently as British spies. Within the present borders of New York state their alliances with the Indians were responsible for some of the bloodiest episodes of the struggle for independence. So numerous and active were they, so large a factor were they in the larger situation, and so great a part did they have in multiplying the problems and perplexities of the patriots, that not a few historians of recent years have written of the Revolution, not as a revolution at all, but as a civil war.

The major military campaigns of the Revolution came and went, and often with long periods intervening. But daily throughout the eight-year conflict the patriots had the Tories with them. No endeavor to appreciate the achievement of the patriots in securing independence can rightly ignore this phase of their struggle—a struggle with a formidable military and naval force from without, and with a bitter, unrelenting foe always at the threshold, watching their every move, often meeting them with armed resistance, and always scheming to stave off the new order of things and to retain the old system of subjection to an old world empire. Tracing Radio Interference

Amateur Must First Make Sure Disturbance Is Not in the Receiving Set Itself—Inside Examination Necessary First.

(In the second article on radio interference, methods suggested by the United States Bureau of Standards for eliminating disturbances caused by electrical apparatus are described. The government is conducting an elaborate study of the interference question in the hope of improving radio reception.)

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Oct. 29.—Of first importance to the radio amateur on suffering from interference obviously from electrical apparatus is a survey of the situation to determine the source of his difficulties.

Begin by making certain the disturbance is not in the receiving set itself. Is the advice of Dr. J. H. Dellinger, radio expert of the United States Bureau of Standards.

"Next open the electric switch at the house meter," the bureau scientist said. "If the interfering noise is still heard in the radio set, the source is then known to be outside the house."

"It is then desirable to report the situation to the electric power company. Many of the companies have apparatus for the purpose of following up complaints of this kind."

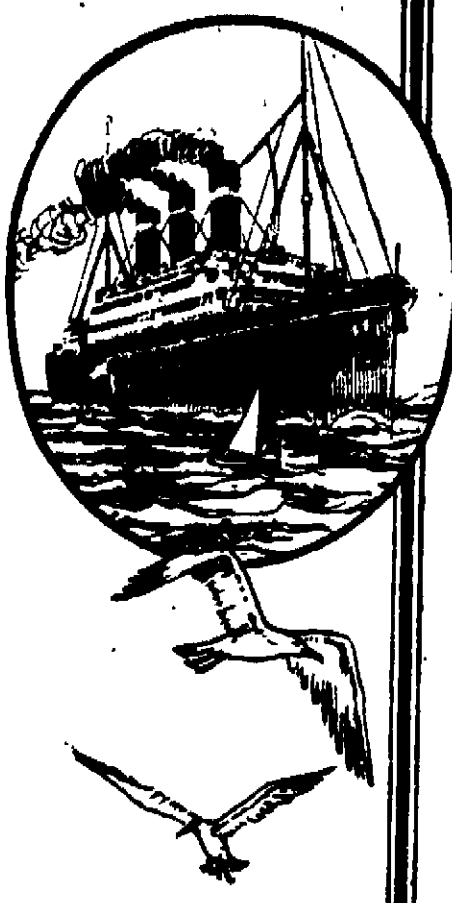

How to Find Direction.

"Usually a sensitive receiving set with a coil antenna is used to determine the direction from which the interfering noise comes and this outfit is taken from place to place until the source is found."

"The location of such sources is often a very difficult and baffling undertaking. The trouble sometimes comes from a spark discharge over an insulator to ground, or between a pair of wires, or it may be that the wire is touching some object such as a tree, pole or guy wire."

"Such a spark discharge is a loss of power to the operating company and a potential source of serious trouble, and for these reasons the company probably is more interested in finding and eliminating this type of trouble than in finding the radio receiver's difficulty. Large leaks and sparks may often be observed at night, especially in hot weather. However, sparks that are too small to be noticed readily may cause serious interference with radio reception."

Direct-current motors often cause trouble with radio reception when in operation near the receiving set, especially when the brushes on the motor are sparking badly. The parking, officials said, should be reduced as much as possible by cleaning the commutator and proper setting of the brushes.

The remaining interference is sometimes overcome by placing two condensers (about two microfarads each) in series across the power supply line and connecting their midpoint to a good ground system.

Another source of interference, the Bureau of Standards found, is the ringing machine used in rural telephone exchanges. The elimination of this interference is especially important to farmers. Telephone engineers, it was pointed out, can eliminate or at least reduce this trouble by connecting a filter between the machine and the ringing keys.

Many cases of radio interference have been caused by electrical precipitations which are used to prevent smoke and noxious fumes or material from leaving a chimney. The precipitator operates by establishing a highly-charged electric field inside the chimney of such a nature and direction that particles going up the chimney are charged and driven against the walls where they stick.

Precipitators cause interference for the reason that the high voltage used in their operation is obtained from a rectifier which produces sparks and generates radio-frequency alternating current as well as the direct current which the precipitator uses.

If the precipitator is so designed and arranged that the distance between the rectifier and the chimney is only a few feet or if the entire apparatus including all leads is housed in a metal building there is usually no trouble.

New idea in car lubrication saves trouble and repair bills

Lubrication expert tell why complete lubrication is a necessity now.

Not since car owners were almost universally convinced that it was necessary to have the old, dirty, worn-out oil drained from their crank-cases at regular intervals has an idea been developed which is of more importance than the new educational campaign now being conducted to teach car owners the necessity of having their entire cars completely re-lubricated periodically.

Now-a-days, car owners rarely drive their cars more than 1,000 miles without getting free crankcase service at a garage or service station; but few realize as yet that it is just as important to renew the lubricants in the transmission, differential and chassis bearings also. Although these parts do not require as frequent attention as the motor, the failure of the lubricants in them often causes repairs just as serious and expensive as burned out bearings or scored cylinders.

In a recent interview, Ralph Gilpin, Tide Water lubrication expert, gave this interesting explanation of the new complete lubrication service campaign:

"For years motorists have paid careful attention to the lubrication of their motors. They now realize the economy of using high quality oil; they watch their oil level carefully; and, for the most part, they have the oil drained from their crankcases after a reasonable period of service, knowing that the oil becomes dirty, worn-out and diluted by raw gasoline that seeps past the piston rings.

But all too often this praise-worthy attention to the protection of their costliest motors is made at the expense of the other vital friction spots on their cars that require high quality and periodic lubrication too. They forget that the hard working transmission and differential, and the hard pressed chassis bearings also need protection. Otherwise, deadly heat and tearing, grinding friction attack them. If the lubricants become worn-out, fatigued or channeled, these vital parts wear out quickly. Often they are ruined. The result is breakdown and repair bills for universal joints, piston gears, master gears, balls, pins and bolts and overhauling of the entire car.

"The motorist, however, has not been aptly to blame for the apparent indifference toward the lubrication of the other vital parts of his car, in addition to the motor. Even if he has wanted to give his car complete lubrication protection, there has been, until now, no sure, quick and convenient way to do it.

"He drives up to a service station to have his car completely lubricated. Instead of getting lubricants of one, uniform, high quality, he gets a motor oil of one make, a gear-lubricant of another make, and a chassis-grease of still a third. Instead of driving away with complete high quality lubrication, he gets an assortment of lubricants, good, bad or indifferent. And the protection these miscellaneous lubricants give his car may be very far from complete.

A National Campaign

"To impress on car owners the necessity of getting complete car lubrication periodically, and to make it easy for them to get correct high quality lubricants for the transmission, differential and chassis of their cars, Tide Water, with the cooperation of its national Veedol dealer organization, is conducting an educational campaign throughout the country during the first week in November. Thousands of dealers now display orange and black Veedol signs telling car owners to get complete lubrication service now and avoid winter troubles. The service is simple, quick and inexpensive. It consists of three steps. First, the worn-out motor oil is drained and the crankcase refilled with fresh, clean, high quality oil. Then, the chassis bearings are thoroughly lubricated. Third, the transmission and differential are cleaned out and refilled with the proper lubricants.

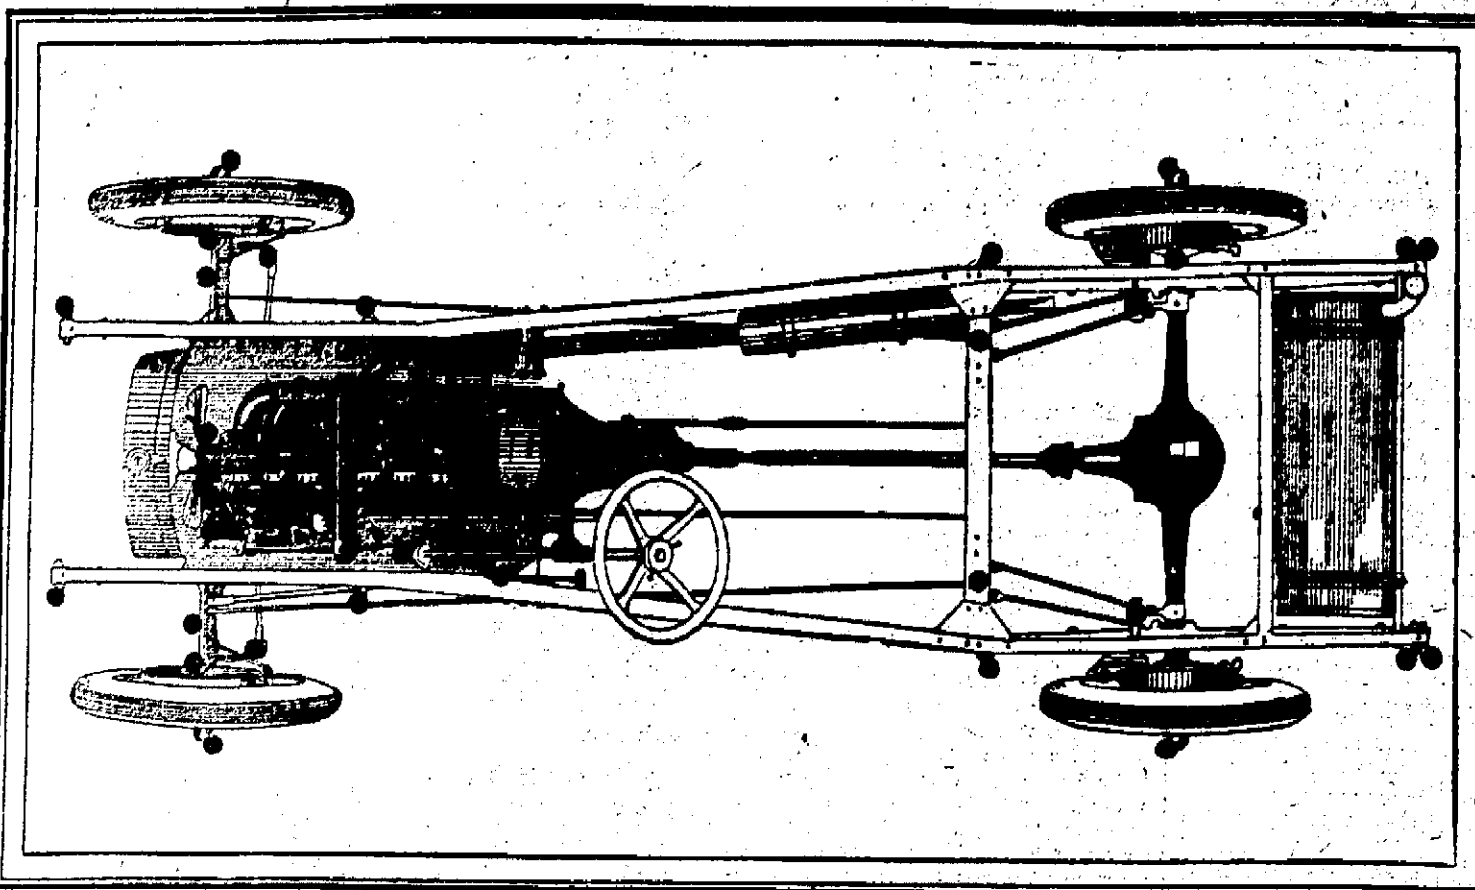

"Already thousands of car owners have been told about this campaign and have had their cars completely lubricated from stem to stern. They find that the small cost is more than offset by the increased protection this service gives in warding off trouble and repair bills, by the smoother, more silent and more efficient operation of their cars, and by the increased second hand value that a mechanically perfect car commands.

Important Now

"Complete car lubrication is especially important now, in fact, it is really a necessity, because the lubricants in most cars are worn out from hard use during the summer months. They cannot be expected to give protection against heat and friction during the hard driving months ahead—tough months when the automobile repair business grows fat and the car owner's pocket book leans."

Motorists no longer jack cars up for winter.

There was a time when motorists were in the habit of jacking their cars up for the winter, because they dreaded the discomforts of cold weather riding and regarded winter driving troubles as a necessary evil. Too often winter driving was nothing but a dismal siege of hard-starting, radiator boiling, breakdowns and repair bills, with very little real pleasure in the bargain.

This picture shows that the motor of your car is by no means the only part that needs careful lubrication attention. On the average car, there are seldom less than thirty other vital points that require lubrication. On some cars, the number runs as high as sixty.

Now, with the large number of closed cars in use, combined with improved side curtains on touring models, winter tops and car radiators, winter riding has been deprived of its sting and most motorists use their cars all winter.

But although they find more pleasure in riding, all too often they are victims of mechanical troubles in their cars which make winter operation unpleasant and expensive. The terrific strain that winter driving at low temperatures over rough, snow packed roads puts on a car is the most frequent cause of breakdowns. The vital parts—the motor, transmission, differential and chassis bearings—operate at extra loads and under great handicaps. They deserve the utmost protection that you can give them.

Experts have long since proved that correct lubrication is the most important factor in keeping cars in perfect mechanical condition. In fact, poor lubrication is the direct or indirect cause of 75% of all car repair bills, and, in winter, the danger of poor lubrication is especially great.

It pays the car owners, therefore, to pay particular attention to the lubrication of every part of his car during the cold weather months. It goes without saying that only lubricants of high quality should be used. A few cents difference in the cost of lubricants often makes a difference of hundreds of dollars in repair bills.

The lubrication of the motor is, of course, most important. In addition to the necessity of using high quality oil, the crankcase should be drained and refilled after every 500 miles of operation. The grade of oil used is also important. Many motors, due to the nature of the lubrication system, require lighter grades of oil in winter than in summer. Otherwise, the oil may congeal and fall to distribute itself to the vital parts until the motor becomes hot in the meantime, the high polished metal surfaces are unprotected. Often cylinders become scored and even bearings burn out. Motorists should always take the advice of lubrication experts in choosing the grade of oil for their cars. Most oil companies issue charts, and Tide Water issues a Veedol Motor Protection Guide which gives motorists the scientific recommendations as to the grade of oil they should use. These Guides are distributed to thousands of garages and service stations so that you can easily find out the correct oil for your motor.

The lubrication of the other vital parts of the car must be carefully watched too. In the transmission and differential, poor quality lubricants, or lubricants of improper consistency often harden and channel during cold weather. They fail to follow the gears, leaving them unprotected. The result is that raw metal grinds on raw metal. Wear progresses rapidly; expensive repairs follow.

Likewise, the chassis bearings need lubrication protection to offset the pounding and strain that rough roads put on them. On the average car, there are at least thirty of these points that require lubrication. Neglect not only destroys silence and smoothness of operation, but also often results in breakdowns and repair bills.

The safest way to insure your car against trouble and repair bills this winter is to have it completely re-lubricated now.

Stained Fingers

Fruit stains on the fingers can be removed by rubbing with oatmeal moistened with vinegar or lemon juice. This should be done before applying soap.

Live Primitive Life

Among the "bushmen" of Africa there are no wedding ceremonies. The men make the clothes and the women build the huts. The moon is an object of worship with them.

Record Disproves
Merrihew Claim

Olive presented claims to the Harris-Reel-McKenna commission.

The first three of the towns mentioned were represented by Arthur E. Rose, who was then county attorney. The other two towns were represented by the late William D. Brinnier.

In a report dated September 14, 1919, the commission recommended that on the stipulation of the representatives of the five towns mentioned with the board of water supply, an award for a total of $8,000 should be paid to the several towns for all claims by reason of the taking of highways and bridges and in full settlement of attorneys' and counsel fees, engineers, experts and witnesses, and in full satisfaction of all indebtedness which the towns may have become obligated for to attorneys.

City Only Paid Lawyers' Fees.

Under the stipulations mentioned, the towns agreed to waive any and all claims against the city of New York, and the $8,000 was divided as follows:

Olive, to William D. Brinnier, $2,750.

Hurley, to William D. Brinnier, $2,750.

Marbletown, to Arthur E. Rose and Harrison T. Slosson, $2,000.

Woodstock, to Arthur E. Rose and Harrison T. Slosson, $350.

Kingston, to Arthur E. Rose and Harrison T. Slosson, $150.

People who are familiar with the various proceedings fail to see how it was that Mr. Merrihew should get all the credit of the construction of the Ashokan boulevard, which takes the place of roads owned by the five towns and also part of a state highway which was destroyed when the Ashokan reservoir was built.

Everyone Else Ignored.

The claim that Mr. Merrihew was the only person responsible for the Ashokan boulevard ignores the demands for justice and the unceasing work done by Ulster county and adjoining counties which New York city invaded, as well as the different towns in such counties and the hundreds of property and business owners through their attorneys. It ignores also the strong efforts of the state water supply commission, the judges of the supreme court, appellate division and court of appeals to secure justice for Ulster and the other counties, including the construction of the Ashokan boulevard and its maintenance.

Assessments Here and Elsewhere.

Work in Ulster county has been completed by the city of New York, which is paying taxes in the towns through which its reservoir property and aqueduct extend.

In Olive in 1924, the city of New York paid taxes on an assessed valuation of $475,000. In Hurley it paid taxes on an assessed valuation of $199,692.

But in Schoharie county, where the Gilboa reservoir, much smaller than New York city's holdings in Ulster county, is now under construction, the city of New York is paying taxes on an assessment which exceeds $3,600,000. The Schoharie county assessments were made after consultation with the local supervisors and other town officials with the state tax commission and are not being contested by the city of New York.

Is Ulster county property so much less valuable than Schoharie county property on account of the Ashokan boulevard? Have agreements been made in Ulster county that are detrimental to the best interests of the resident taxpayers? What are they? Who made them?

CURRENT OFFERINGS

AT THE THEATRES

Monta Bell's "Pretty Ladies," a Metro Goldwyn Mayer production is being shown at the Keeney Theatre today, tomorrow and Saturday. It's a picture on the screen of stage life before the footlights and back stage. It shows how stage folk live and it proves they are just as human as people who never have set foot in a theatre except as member of an audience. ZaSu Pitts is featured and Tom Moore plays the leading male role. There is also the Keeney News, Topics of the Day, Scenic, and comedy, with classy musical program by Jimmie Connors and Boys.

There is a good attraction of vaudeville at the Opera House opening today, featuring Dainty June and the Horvick Revue. The other acts include the following: Josslyn Brothers, European Wonders, Miss Elsie Haywood, singing comedienne, Ship Ahoy, a miniature comedy, Nat Vincent and Blanche Franklin, two popular song writers who have written "Forever Blowing Bubbles," and other big hits. The photoplay will be "A Fight For Honor," featuring Eva Novak and William Fairbanks.

At the Auditorium tonight, "The Air Mail," an Irvin Willat production, will be screened. Warner Baxter, Billie Dove, Mary Brian and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., are featured.

Charities, families were carried through the past winter, where lack of work and sickness prevented the wage earner of the home from contributing. This assistance is constantly needed, especially through the winter months.

Under the direction of Mrs. Thomas E. Hayes articles of clothing were made and distributed to 27 different families.

In one instance, a loan of a considerable amount was made to a disabled ex-service man to allow him to continue his business, this loan to be repaid gradually, as he is able. We have also answered appeals from families not connected with the services, and given help in many instances.

Executive Officers.

The general meeting then adjourned and the executive committee went into session re-electing all officers as follows: D. N. Mathews, president; Mayor Block, first vice-president; Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck, second vice-president; Mrs. M. B. Downer, third vice-president; E. E. Ougheltree, treasurer; Mrs. C. W. Hasbrouck, executive secretary.

On motion the president was granted the privilege of appointing chairmen of committees at his convenience.

A communication was received from Charles Mullen, secretary of Chapter No. 55, B. P. O. E., offering the services of that organization to put over the Red Cross Membership Drive from November 11th—Armistice Day—to November 25th, throughout the county, and asking that a committee of the Red Cross be appointed to meet with the Elks' committee to make final arrangements for such drive. The communication from Mr. Mullen was received with profound gratitude by the Red Cross Chapter, and the following committee was appointed to confer with the Elks: Mr. Mathews, Mrs. Hayes, Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck, Mayor Block, Martin Cantine, Mrs. C. W. Hasbrouck, Sylvanus Van Aken, Mrs. Downer of Woodstock, and such others as the president might wish to add to the committee.

After learning that the Wawarsing Branch of the Ulster County Chapter had disbanded, the meeting adjourned.

Wanted Human Tit-Bit to Top Off Pork Feast

New Guinea cannibals, apparently, have a low sense of hospitality, says Merlin Moore Taylor, in the Wide World. He says that the mountain folks had duly provided the usual feast, but when their guests arrived they had been seized with the desire to top off their gluttonies with a bit of human flesh, and accordingly attacked a visitor.

His life was saved by his fellow-villagers after a free-for-all fight, whereupon the mountaineers, although disappointed, insisted on a resumption of the feast.

In New Guinea all mountain hamlets are built upon the tops of peaks which offer a good view of the surrounding country, "so that our approach was seen long before we got to Koppellip, the place where the feast had been held. The Koppellip people, naturally, being none too easy in conscience, thought so large a body must be an avenging party, and accordingly we walked into a neat ambush. The reception committee consisted of not only the Koppellip warriors, but all their friends from near-by hamlets.

"We had descended a small ravine and were following a well-defined trail along it when the trap was sprung. One moment we were alone in the jungle; the next the banks on each side of us were covered with armed natives. Fortunately for us, they did not attack without warning, or our situation would have been hopeless. Probably the sight of white men stayed their hands."

New Rule

A teacher in one of the Indianapolis high schools attempted, one day, to instruct her freshman class in the art of punctuation. One colored boy appeared unusually perplexed. Thinking to encourage the lad, the teacher asked him a very easy question: "John, when should I use a period?" John meditated a few moments, then, after he had rolled his eyes about helplessly and had shifted his feet in some desperation, he managed to stammer out: "Well—you—can dot your 'I's' with 'em.'"—Indianapolis News.

STARVATION

Deprivation of the body of necessary nourishment may result not only from lack of food but lack of digestion. EMACIATION follows deficient nourishment due to the non-assimilation of food—in other words DYSPEPSIA. THE GROVER GRAHAM DYSPEPSIA REMEDY is a specific for all disorders arising from an impaired digestive system. It gives instantaneous relief and positively restores the normal functions. It has a record of 40 years back of it.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER
CALIFORNIA SEA LION

Billie Brownie, wearing his invisible robe, so no one could see him, paid another visit to the zoo.

He agreed with the people that it was great fun to stand around the tank where the sea lions were.

He liked to hear them bark and to see them play, just as the people liked to hear them bark and to see them play.

The people could not understand what the sea lions were saying, but Billie Brownie could on account of the special permission given him by Mother Nature, and the power to understand her children.

"How I can bark," said the sea lion, known as the California Sea Lion, because his family is along the coast of California.

"Yes, you can bark," said Mr. Seal, Billie Brownie agreed to this, too.

"You know it makes me very angry," said the sea lion, "that I am always being mistaken for you."

"It seems as if it were a great pity that people couldn't or wouldn't stop to find out which is which and what is what."

"Well," said Mr. Seal, "I am not sure if that is such a compliment to me."

"It's too bad you aren't flattered when you are mistaken for a seal."

"You misunderstood me, my good sir," said the sea lion.

"Yes, you completely misunderstood me. It's all very well to be mis-

"You Misunderstand Me, My Good Sir," said the sea lion.

taken for one's brother or one's sister, or one's father, but not for another animal.

"It isn't that I don't think you are a fine and handsome creature, but it is nice to be one's self."

"I don't want to be anything else, because I am used to being a sea lion."

"I don't mean to hurt your feelings, Mr. Seal, for I like you, and want you for a friend."

"I understand," said Mr. Seal, "I know just what you mean. I am mistaken for you in the same way, and while I like you I don't like you to be mistaken for me."

"I have flat, triangular flippers and no claws," said the sea lion.

"And I have claws and short, fat front flippers," said Mr. Seal. "My front flippers are also covered with hair, and you haven't any hair on your flippers."

"I have a very long neck," said the sea lion, "and you have a very short one."

"That's so," agreed Mr. Seal. "I have a short neck."

"And I have more strength and am more energetic than you are," said the sea lion.

"Everything you say is true," said Mr. Seal. "Do you think that some day we will make people understand the difference?"

"I hope so," said Mr. Seal, and as he said so he began barking again.

Many people gathered around him once more, for when he had been quiet he had not had such an audience. Yes, people certainly did like to hear him bark.

"Come over and see me and see the difference between me and Mr. Seal," he shouted.

"Have the keeper tell you the difference, if you don't understand or notice yourselves."

"The keeper will tell you. He likes to have my audience and visitors know about me and about Mr. Seal."

"He likes to give true information about his animals, so people won't have wrong ideas."

"Come along."

And though the people couldn't understand what he said, he made such a noise barking that they did ask the keeper all about him.

But Billie Brownie already knew, as he had understood the talk between Mr. Seal and Mr. California Sea Lion.

Juvenile Logic

Two small girls were playing together one afternoon in the park.

"I wonder what time it is," said one of them at last.

"Well, it can't be four o'clock yet," replied the other with magnificent logic, "because my mother said I was to be home at four—and I'm not."

Couldn't Be Softer

"Jimmy," said a mother to her quick-tempered small boy, "you must not grow angry and say naughty things. You should always give a soft answer."

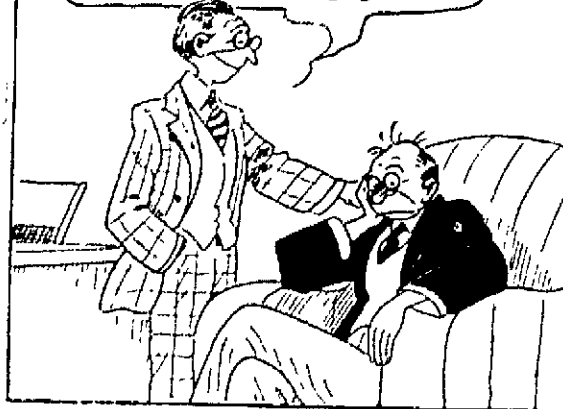

When his little brother provoked him an hour afterward, Jimmy clenched his little fist and said, "Mush."

Glass Shelves Are "Joy"

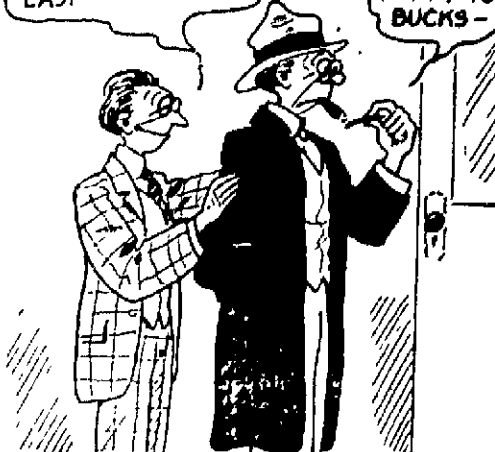

The joy of glass shelves in the kitchen cannot be overestimated. They are easy to clean, do not attract roaches or ants, are as strong as wood if properly treated and can carry as heavy a load as any self-respecting shelf should.

A few can make money by shrewd trading, or by improving some unusual opportunity, but the majority of men can hope to amass wealth only by self-denial and hard, persistent toil.—Lyde Davis

SEASONABLE GOOD THINGS

A jar of good well-seasoned salad dressing is always reasonable and always needed.

Fruit Salad Dressing

Combine two beaten eggs, four tablespoonsful of sugar, one-half teaspoonful of salt and one-fourth teaspoonful of pepper, when well beaten add four tablespoonfuls of vinegar, one tablespoonful of mustard and a few dashes of cayenne. Cook over hot water until thick. Pour into a jar and set away in a cool place. When serving, mix one and one-half tablespoonfuls of this dressing with a cupful of cream.

Chestnut Croquettes.—Take one cupful of cooked mashed chestnuts, two tablespoonfuls of cream (thick), the yolks of two eggs, one teaspoonful of sugar. Mix, shape into balls, dip into egg and crumbs and fry in deep fat. Drain. Serve as a garnish for fowl.

Cadillac Chicken.—Wipe a chicken, dressed as for broiling. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and place in a well-greased broiler; cook eight minutes. Remove to the pan and rub over with the following: Cream four tablespoonfuls of butter, add one teaspoonful of mustard, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of vinegar and a few dashes of cayenne. Sprinkle with three-fourths of a cupful of soft buttered crumbs and bake until the chicken is tender and the crumbs are well browned.

Savory Pork.—Cut two pounds of fresh ham into one-half-inch slices. Trim off the extra fat and fry for ten minutes in a hot frying pan. Add two slices of onion, one cupful of tomatoes, one shredded green pepper, and cook five minutes. Add one-fourth of a cupful of flour, and just enough water to cover. Season and cook closely covered for twenty minutes. Just before serving add two cupfuls of cooked spaghetti. Arrange the ham on a platter with the spaghetti surrounding it.

If pork chops are parboiled in three or four tablespoonfuls of water, turning them until the water is evaporated then browned, they will be well cooked without being dry.

Legs Thin, King Bars Portrait

KING GEORGE

The portrait of King George, by Charles Sims, on exhibition in New York, was removed from the Royal Academy's walls in London by the King himself. It is said the King felt the spindly legs in the portrait monopolized attention that should have been given the face.

VOTE FOR MERRIHEW

Jacob V. Merrihew has served the people of Ulster County well and faithfully as a citizen and as a Supervisor. No one man has done more for the people of this county than he. The interests of Ulster County and the people of the County have always been close to his heart. He has a record for efficiency, ability and integrity that has never been questioned.

Remember Voters, that it was Jacob V. Merrihew that secured for Ulster County 40 miles of fine highway, the cost of which was upwards of $1,500,000 without the expenditure of a penny of the money of the people of Kingston and Ulster County and secured its Maintenance, FOREVER. He is a candidate for County Treasurer. A man of his type is needed in this office. Vote to put him in charge of this office.

HE WILL SERVE THE PEOPLE, AND LOOK AFTER THEIR INTERESTS RATHER THAN THE INTEREST OF ANY POLITICAL ORGANIZATION.

"POPE JOAN" CENTER OF MANY LEGENDS

Fantastic Tale Embellished by Chroniclers.

Of all the crabbled, querulous, ecclesiastical tales of the Middle Ages, none is more medieval, and none more provocative to doctors and sages, than the history of "Pope Joan," says John O'London's Weekly. About her and about her they have argued. She was a man, say some; a devil, say others; she occupied the throne of Saint Peter for any period of time from two and a half to nineteen years; she was named alternately Agnes, Gilberta, Gerberta, Margaret, Isabel, Dorothy, or Jutta; she did not exist at all. Probably not, indeed; she achieves but a small measure of verisimilitude in the hands of her chroniclers, and their differing stories do not help her. On one point only they are agreed; with one accord they say her head over her moral delinquency, and brand her as having, at a peculiarly inconvenient moment, given birth to a child.

It is between Leo IV, who died on July 11, 853, and Benedict, consecrated on September 29 of the same year, that legend endeavors to sandwich its woman pope. By the end of the Thirteenth century her story had won general credence. At the beginning of the Fifteenth century her supposed bust kept company in the cathedral at Siena with the busts of all authentic popes; and at the Council of Constance John Huss supported his claims by appealing to the case of "Agnes who became Pope Joan."

The tale swells in extravagance as it grows in years. Stephen of Pontresays simply that the woman was a clever scribe, who became notary of the Curia and rose to be cardinal and pope. A later version sends her first on a visit to Athens, where by her diligence she becomes a subtle reasoner. The fame of Rome reaches her ears; straightway she packs up her books and journeys thither, to become a professor at whose feet the greatest teachers are eager to sit. Celebrated for her mode of life no less than for her learning, she is unanimously elected pope; but alas! fine living makes her voluptuous, and, yielding to temptation, she falls.

A monk of Malmesbury, writing in 1306, says that, born in Mayence, Joan was sent by her parents to receive instruction in the sciences from male teachers. On one of them she came to look with more affection than became a pupil, and when he went to Rome, she donned man's dress and went with him; and there, because she surpassed everyone in learning, she was made cardinal by Pope Leo.

As to the punishment meted out to the disciple of Satan, when the birth of a child betrayed her, the authorities differ. One of them will have her discovered before her election, tied to the feet of a horse, dragged out of the city and stoned. Another allows her a two years' triumph and a natural death. A third merely deposes her; while Boccaccio (who, the wicked fellow, rather enjoys the tale) permits her to shed a few tears and retire into private life!

Childhood

Adults, whether parents or governesses or teachers, are phenomena of nature which children unquestionably accept. Unworried by philosophies which rend the souls of adults, to them today is today and yesterday was not, and tomorrow shall not be. Living in the moment, with the moment thus becoming eternity, to them we adults are as the rocks, the trees, the sky, the sun. We are neither to be liked nor disliked, loved nor hated. We just are. We have reality, but it is a sketchy sort of reality, bearing slight relation to important things.

For we adults forget: food and drink and sleep are the realities to us, but not to children. Play, the words or deeds of their coevals—these are the true realities. And how can we, benevolent autocrats seated upon the throne of middle life, understand the vital things?—Arthur Somers Roche, in Hearst's International Cosmopolitan.

Bulgaria Bars Bobs

Bulgaria is a country in which the regulation of the affairs of the people is distinctly in evidence, especially in so far as the feminine sex is concerned. For instance, a recent decree of the state educational authorities forbids school girls to shingle or bob their hair. Another decree provides that skirts must not be too short. In one or two of the provincial towns the rules are even more strict and silk stockings and canes are regarded as quite unnecessary articles in a woman's attire. In general Bulgarian women dress soberly, but neatly, and prefer good, lasting textures to cheap and frivolous materials.

RED CROSS YEAR A RELIEF RECORD

Huge Relief Work After Midwest
Tornado the Greatest in American Annals.

DISASTERS DROP IN 1925

Ranged From Fire to Earthquake and Covered Wide Area at Home and Abroad.

Virtual completion of the largest peace-time project of post-disaster rehabilitation ever known has been accomplished by the American Red Cross in less than a year, as a part of its relief work in the more than 90 disasters in which it served in the past year.

This great program was undertaken following the tornado which struck five mid-western States last spring, killing 796 people, injuring 2,239 more, and causing incalculable property loss. It left a huge area of devastation in its wake, presenting a real problem. The Red Cross, however, went to work on the heels of the storm, caring for the injured, sheltering and feeding whole communities, and helping every individual sufferer from the destruction back to normal.

The magnitude of the problem is indicated by comparison of its huge casualty list with that of the entire preceding year, whose combined losses were 735 dead and not quite 2,000 injured, as a result of the record number of 192 catastrophes.

The story of the Red Cross service in the past year, recounted by the report, ranges from fires heading the list of destructive forces with 29 disasters to mine explosions, tornadoes, typhoons, floods and earthquakes.

The Santa Barbara earthquake was among the outstanding events recorded in the report. The Red Cross had completed its relief organization on the scene within a few hours of the disaster, and in addition had launched a program designed to permanently restore every person affected by it to his former status once more.

The Red Cross service in the period following the wreck of the Navy ship "Shenandoah" was typical of its promptness and effectiveness. Service in this instance was afforded by Red Cross chapters in the vicinity of the wreck, and by representatives of the national organization. It demonstrates graphically the value of each of the more than 3,000 chapters of the society which are at work in virtually every part of the country, in the facility they afford the national organization in emergencies.

There were 61 domestic disaster operations reported in which the Red Cross rendered service either through chapter or national staff personnel during the year. In 34 of these the national organization appropriated a total of $3,047,536.49, the greater portion of which was received as direct contributions for the relief of specific disasters. The relief operations following the northern Ohio tornado of June, 1924, were brought to a close in May, 1925, after an arrangement had been made with the Lorain chapter to provide expert services to the families of any tornado sufferers who required such assistance in the next two years. In this single disaster the relief work, as finally accounted, reached a total of $1,019,751.23.

The mid-western tornado of this year, covering a strip of territory 400 miles long involved an expenditure up to June 30 of $774,000, while the total amount turned in to the fund through the agency of the Red Cross was $2,645,000. In addition to this sum specifically collected for the purpose, the Red Cross had expended from its regular reserves $124,000. In all these disasters, Red Cross workers have been impressed by the spirit of determination and hopefulness shown by the people. Once they recovered from their grief and bewilderment, they began at once to rebuild, materially and otherwise, and always on a better scale where possible. Another significant feature of these occurrences, as noted in the report of the Red Cross, was the promptness with which the local chapters organized emergency relief before help could be received from outside sources. A direct effect of their example has been to stimulate disaster relief preparedness among chapters all over the country.

The services of the American Red Cross are performed invariably in the name of the American people. On the effectiveness of this representation during the past year, it will launch the ninth annual roll call this year on November 11, to continue until Thanksgiving, November 26, during which support through membership will be invited for 1926.

What becomes of Red Cross sweeteners which the American Red Cross has asked for? In the first place, they are needed for the 30,000 disabled veterans still in hospitals this winter, the garments being in great demand. The surplus left from the war has been exhausted since the Armistice, hence the new call for the sweetener-kitchen to resume their needful, a call already being met.

The American Red Cross serves in your name, you can make it more effective by adding your name to its membership during the Roll Call, Nov. 11-26.

Grade Crossing Plan Unworkable

Republican Leaders Fighting Smith's Grade Crossing Proposal Insist That Many Localities Would Be Bankrupt.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Albany, Oct. 29.—With election less than a week away, Republican leaders now are out in the open fighting Governor Smith's $300,000,000 bond issue for the elimination of railroad grade crossings.

Up to the point time the G. O. P. chiefs have been centering their attack on the governor's $100,000,000 bond issue for permanent public improvements. Now they are anxious to see both amendments go down to defeat next Tuesday.

The Republican leaders charge the $300,000,000 proposal would be unworkable, should it be adopted. They insist that many localities, which would be forced to pay 25 per cent of the cost of eliminating crossings, would be bankrupt under the proposal.

At a hearing before the legislative grade crossing committee headed by Senator Charles J. Hewitt, Republican, an important decision handed down by Attorney General Albert Ottinger, Republican, was placed in evidence. The attorney general held that every locality should be forced to pay its 25 per cent share of the elimination cost, and that the state could not assume that debt.

Governor Smith recently declared that the Legislature could have the state assume the debt of any locality if it were found that that locality could not pay its share of the elimination cost.

In many of the small communities, according to the Republican leaders, the cost of eliminating crossings would be anywhere from 50 to 75 per cent of the entire property assessment of the community.

"This would mean bankruptcy for many of our smaller communities," said former Senator Clayton R. Lusk, Republican, of Cortland, and counsel to the legislative grade crossing committee.

Despite the Republican attack on the bond proposals, Democratic leaders are confident they will be adopted. They believe the city vote for the proposals will more than offset the rural vote, expected to be cast against the amendments.

Rub the Chest

For Deep, Heavy Colds

Here is the best way to get rid of a bad cold. First apply hot wet towels over throat and chest to open the pores of the skin.

Then massage briskly with Vicks for five minutes, spread on thickly and cover with two thicknesses of hot flannel clothes. Leave the bedclothing loose about the neck so that the vapors arising may be freely inhaled. Those vapors, inhaled with each breath, carry the medication directly to the affected parts.

At the same time Vicks is absorbed through and stimulates the skin, helping the vapors inhaled to relieve tightness and soreness.

Hill Sage Sees Hard Winter

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Hanover, Pa., Oct. 29.—"This coming winter will be a long and hard one," Incol Markline, 94, sage of the hills, said, basing his predictions on signs learned in a lifetime spent in the Pigeon Hills, near here.

The old man, whose forecasts are near the mark much of the time, has been trapping small fur-bearing animals and finds that unusually heavy "under fur" this autumn is noticeable on rabbits, coon, possum, mink and weasels. This is a never failing sign, he asserts. Markline said: "Hornets nests, instead of being hung on bushes, as last year, are all on tree branches and not lower than seven feet from the ground; a sign of deep snow. Such an indication is also given by the growth of weeds along fences. Their seed pods will extend well above drift lines, so that the bob white can find powder when blizzards cover the dried growth on the level."

"Autumn was late coming; a hard winter often follows a late fall. Crows under the bark on oak trees are in extra heavy 'spinnings.' Wild bees have filled the bee trees with a surplus of honey. The squirrels are packing their little granaries with ticky nuts, walnuts and acorns and are still working tirelessly to store up victuals."

"And," laughed the sage, "I've bought a new heavy overcoat, so you can see I'm a believer in the signs of the woods."

"Big Game" Increasing in the United States

The rangers in the forest service took a census last year of the big game in the federal forests, and the recently published report allays the fear that such game is becoming to the onslaughts of sportsmen.

"Big game," as technically used, includes antelope, bear, buffalo, elk, moose, mountain goat and mountain sheep. The census covers 139 forests, and for the first time enumerates the bear as big game.

The buffalo, as Americans miscall the bison, was for the first time dropped from the census, as bison in the United States no longer are "game," being in guarded herds. Nor did the rangers reckon game outside of parks and forests, though such animals are numerous.

There are about 5,000 antelope, or prong-horns, chiefly in Arizona and Idaho, though Nevada and Oregon jointly have a great herd not in a federal forest. The bears comprise 5,000 grizzlies, virtually all in Alaska, though Montana has a few, and 38,700 black or brown. Deer number 550,000, increasing by nearly 40,000 in the year. Every forest boasts an increase of elk, the number being 32,000. Moose, however, numbered only 5,000 in 1924, whereas in 1923 there were 8,000. Wild goats and wild sheep numbered, respectively, 17,000 and 12,000, each increasing slightly. The total of big game was 687,000 animals under protection by the national government.

Wild animals left to themselves are protected reserves steadily multiply. The bear is a costly nuisance to farmers and stockmen, but all other big game is harmless and an ornament it should be given every protection.

HIGHLAND.

Highland, Oct. 29.—The annual turkey dinner given by the official board of M. E. Church was a wonderful success. The dinner was under the supervision of Mrs. Suzanne Decker, president of Auxiliary Club with able corps of assistants of members. Music was supplied by Elmer Fisher, organist; Miss Dusenberry, vocalist; F. McKinstry, pianist and accompanist. The dinner was grand, the tables were filled and service was excellent, a success both socially and financially. This dinner has been the subject of conversation for a long time, and it ended auspiciously. Decorations for the table were arranged by Mrs. Charles DuBois. Mrs. Braunstein had charge of window decorations, and Miss Dimsey and her able corps of helpers did noble work in the kitchen. Mr. Whitley and Hubbard were the turkey carvers. The dining room service was excellent and nothing left undone for the hungry people. There was seated at tables over 100. The dinner was in relays, 5:30, 6:30 and 7:30. They fed over 300, and every one felt they had a responsibility that could neither be shirked or transferred to another. Take all in all thanks are due all who in any way assisted to make it a success and the officials of church are very grateful to the people for their patronage and it will long be remembered by all as a delicious turkey dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. DeWitt Clearwater had as their recent guests Mr. and Mrs. John Linsen of Kingston and all enjoyed a motor trip through the country.

Last Sunday, Rally Day was one long to be remembered by the First M. E. Church people. There was a very large congregation and fine reports given from Sunday school, Epworth League. A good program was rendered and J. W. Foster and Professor Dales, principal of the high school, gave very instructive and inspirational talks which all appreciated. The church was decorated to harmonize with fall or autumn berries and leaves with some flowers—made it beautiful and the fine organist, Elmer Fisher was highly commended on and everything financial and otherwise was as always is—very successful, and these people with their popular pastor, the Rev. R. Braunstein will not take a back seat for any one.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Lent were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. S. Warring of New Paltz.

Captain R. H. Decker was in Poughkeepsie Monday on business. Mrs. J. P. Whitley and Mrs. Parker Decker were in New York city a few days the past week.

Mrs. Edith Brundage was in New York city the past week attending the wedding of a relative.

Mrs. F. Goudy has bought a place near Milton and Walter Seaman has men busy now wiring is for electric lights.

The Daughters of America of this place held a rehearsal Monday evening in K. of P. Hall.

The Rebekah Lodge held its regular meeting Thursday evening and the homecoming of Mrs. Blakeley, the deputy president, was observed. There was a large attendance and everything passed off fine. She was presented with a gift from her home lodge. Bountiful refreshments were served and all are looking forward to the great meeting when state officials will be received.

Mrs. C. Rowley attended the funeral services of Dr. Palmer at Marlborough on Friday. He was highly esteemed and will be greatly missed in the community. Sympathy is extended to his family.

Miss Mary Carpenter returned home the past week. She has spent over two months in Detroit, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Schermerhorn.

Howard Wilcox was in New York city the past week on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Plass and Mrs. Emily Decker, mother of Mrs. Plass, have been on an auto tour of one week. They went to Detroit and attended the automobile convention and grand banquet given there by the famous Rickenbacker firm for whom Mr. Plass is agent, also stockpiling every moment going and returning, and also fine entertainment at different places.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Wilcox were week end guests at camp at Watson Hollow.

Wednesday evening the Epworth League of the First M. E. Church held a masquerade in the league rooms. There was a large attendance to enjoy the sport. The costumes were attractive and amusing and refreshments were served and quite some money for the treasury was realized.

The Queen Esther Circle held a masquerade and had a jolly time. The prize winners were Mrs. Charles DuBois, Mrs. George Corbell, Mrs. Dalton. Refreshments were served after fun was through with.

Miss Elizabeth DeGroot of this place had a fall and injured her leg and had to be removed to Vassar Hospital in Poughkeepsie. Her many friends hope she may recover soon.

The Rev. Richard Braunstein, as usual, gave interesting sermons Sunday morning and evening. It was a very stormy day, still there was a large attendance.

Miss Bertha Dimsey was in Ohioville Sunday, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Fass.

Mrs. Ean of Lloyd was a recent guest of Mrs. Dayton on Grand street.

Harry Leonard of Elmira has been the guest of his mother here the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Miller have returned from their vacation, spent in Boston and other places.

Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Kurtz were in Kingston Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Fisher and Elmer Fisher and Mrs. Bereah of Marlborough were recent visitors in Liberty.

Zeno Lodge, K. of P., held a regular meeting Wednesday evening.

J. O. U. A. M. held their meeting on Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Feeter made a motor trip to Clarville the past week, to their camp.

Dates to keep in mind: D. of A. card party, November 6; November 11 and 17, for Presbyterian Church affairs, and some O. E. S. and Rebekahs doings. Also suppers and some society affairs. Many marvelous things waiting for you to attend.

The annual meeting and dinner for the 156th Regiment members in Grange Hall was a success. There are not many members of the regiment left. The twelve old soldiers and their wives and sisters enjoyed the roast beef dinner with its accessories. The social was interesting, and the business session carried on very nicely. The officers were re-elected and the meeting voted to hold same October 19, 1926, in the same place and requested the same ones to serve dinner. This was under the direction of President Suzanne Decker of Auxiliary fame, with a few of her efficient workers. These people bring not alone ability but years of practice and they are ever ready to lend generously of their time and knowledge to the furthering of all great work.

There were 50 present at the regular meeting of Ida McKinley Council, D. of A., Wednesday evening at which time definite plans were made for the card party to be held on Friday evening, November 6. Progressive pinocle and other card games, also dominoes. There will be several prizes awarded.

Mrs. Anna Hoyward is chairman, assisted by Madame F. Goulart, A. Maynard, D. Kurtz, G. Graham, L. Sheeley and E. Tompkins. Chairman for refreshments, Miss Bertha Dimsey, with able corps of assistants will be on hand to supply the inner man with good things. They hope to have a large attendance. There are a number of O. E. S. members in the D. of A. It was hoped the O. E. S. will come out in force to this so they may have assistants in their affairs.

A number from this place were in Marlborough Tuesday evening for the meeting of the Pythian Sisters. Charles Brown and Mrs. R. K. R. have gone to St. Petersburg, Florida. They live there every winter.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Cummings have gone south and expect to remain for the winter. They returned there.

Mrs. Austin Merritt is spending some time in Newburgh visiting.

On November 6, the Auxiliary Club will meet in the M. E. Church parlor. Important business. Hostesses will be announced later. Hour 2:30.

A card party for the D. of A. of this place will be held on Friday evening, November 6th, at 8 o'clock in K. of P. Hall.

GRANDMOTHER, 52, PLANS TO CONQUER CHANNEL.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Weymouth, Eng. Oct. 29.—Although 52 years old and a grandmother, Mrs. Craven proposes to try her luck in conquering the English Channel, and is constantly training here for her attempt, scheduled to take place in July or August 1926. She practices every morning in all kinds of weather, and her latest feat on a cold October morning with a very high and chilly sea running was to swim a distance of seven and a half miles. When not practicing Mrs. Craven is employed as a nurse in a local hospital.

Striped Velvet and Fur Featuring Sash and Bow.

They come in "velvet gowns"—the women who dress according to fashion's dictates. It's a season of velvet, of rich fabrics and brilliant colorings. One of these charming models, pictured here, is striped velvet, trimmed with fur. It has a sash and bow to give a note of youthfulness.

Black Frocks Appear in Charming Versions

Black frocks were decidedly nonexistent in the modes of summer, a season that was colorful to an extent without precedent in the annals of fashion history, but in the collection shown for early fall they appear in various charming versions and are distinguished by individual touches that add greatly to their charm.

Not a little of their attractiveness is due to the introduction of color into the costumes either by touches of vivid intense hues or in pale tones of flesh and biscuit.

This is a color combination new this year and is of much importance.

Facings of delicate colors on the revers or side draperies of black frocks is a new note seen on several of the most attractive models.

THE FUR COAT MAY BE INTRICATELY WORKED, BUT SIMPLE IN SILHOUETTE.

The fur coat no longer means elaboration—or unlovely bulk. Skins are skilfully treated so that they are figure-conforming, and such pelts as are stripped use their marking to the best possible advantage. Gazelle and such furs are as pliable as some clothes and much smarter.

At this season when the world and his best girl are motoring in stadium and bowl to sit for hours in perhaps a biting cold, furs not only seem, but are important. The sports coat is so smart when it is made of fur—and many women prevented from the luxury of owning two fur coats, prefer a sports model to the formal type. Those who are interested in appearing young do, in all event.

In a general way, all furs used for sports wear are short—the great exception to this rule being raccoon, which is used more often than anything else. Nearly all of the smart furs this season are tawny or frankly brown, like nutria or beaver, and many furs are dyed beyond all recognition and with no thought of imitation. No one really expects that a purple fur came off the purple cow, and there are green and blue furs, as well as really red ones these days.

Among the interesting revivals is poney skin, a fur which, if smartly cut, makes a good-looking coat, especially for the young girl. Shaved furs of several kinds are liked—and there is no prejudice against inexpensive pelts—either as a trimming or as the body of the coat. One has almost as much respect for chinchilla rat as for chinchilla—that costliest and rarest of furs.

Foods That Children Love

Appetizing Ways to Impart Necessary Energy Food Element to System

Children just dote on these foods. The craving of their appetites—whetted by constant play and action—is for "fat" foods; and these foods furnish it in plenty.

Layer cake, cookies, pastry—each take lots of shortening. You can spread bread just as thick as you want. Thus each of these foods imparts a good quota of food fat to the diet. Each is an appetizing way for mothers to get children to eat enough fat foods.

Jelke GOOD LUCK Margarine is an ideal shortening. It makes delicate, fine grained cakes, tasteful cookies, and delicious pastry. As a spread for bread it is delicious.

GOOD LUCK is a blend of several pure, fresh, wholesome fats. It is easily digestible, wholesome, pure, and contains vitamins.

Serve and use GOOD LUCK to nourish children in a way they like.

CHILDREN WILL MISS JOSEPH DRAKE

Under the caption "In Memory of Joseph Drake, a recent issue of the Charity Organization Bulletin, published weekly by the Charity Organization Society of the city of New York, says:

The death of Joseph Drake of New York last June meant a very real loss to C. O. S. children.

Five years ago Mr. Drake asked permission to borrow "$10 worth of kids" to take to the circus. He proved to be the kind of a man that children adore and that first circus party was a glorious success. The next year a friend, joined him and "$15 worth of kids" spent a spell-bound afternoon as his guests. Every year since the numbers have increased. Over a thousand children shared in the treat last April.

Circus parties are now so popular that we feel sure they will live for many years as a part of the C. O. S. program. But to those of us who knew him, it will never seem quite the same without Mr. Drake to share both the work and the fun.

OLIVE VOTER APPEALS FOR CANDIDATE WHO IS ILL

To Town of Olive Voters:

Perhaps one of the most important of the town office is superintendent of highways. The Republican party could not have made a better choice than when they selected John W. Kelder for this important office. It is a hard matter to suit everyone when it comes to keeping up our roads, but we believe Mr. Kelder, elected, will make one of the best superintendents this town has ever had. Our taxpayers can rest assured that every dollar spent will show results. Mr. Kelder will appreciate any support you may give him.

HURTS HIP IN FALL FROM TREE

Bruises and strain quickly helped by simple treatment

A simple home treatment, used at once, will greatly hasten recovery from bruises, strains, and sprains.

Hundreds of people from all over the country have taken the trouble to write of the truly remarkable results they have got from using it.

A young woman writes from Rockwell's Basin, Monroe County, N. Y.: "While she was picking cherries, the branch of the tree on which she was standing, broke and gave her a bad fall."

"I suffered agony," she says, "but I used Sloan's Liniment, and it relieved the pain right away. Now I don't feel it at all."

Sloan's gets results because it doesn't just deaden pain; it gets at the cause.

Right to the place that hurts it brings a healing stream of fresh blood. Quickly and surely it breaks up congestion, drives away pain. So clean and easy to use, too. Get a bottle today. All druggists—35 cents.

Smiley Brothers
Jubilee Quintet

There is nothing finer in the entire realm of melody, than trained colored voices, providing the singers have good voices to begin with. The Smiley Brothers Jubilee Quintet, one of the finest colored singing groups in the south, which is to appear here Friday evening at Epworth Hall of Clinton Avenue M. E. Church has made a tremendous impression because of the fact that the organization has been singing together for years with identically the same personnel, and also because of the fact that each member is gifted with a very fine natural voice and has enjoyed careful training.

The old heart songs of the Southland will be featured. Negro spirituals, melodies of the cotton fields, plantation songs, in fact the entire repertoire of old Dixie will be sung as only the Smiley Brothers can render these harmonious numbers.

There will be lots of fun in the program, too, particularly in the groups of old plantation songs where, of course, the boys are at their best. Novel features will also be offered.

There are three brothers in the group, Adam Smiley, first tenor; Mc Elroy Smiley, second tenor, and Claude R. Smiley, bass. The fourth member is Albert Day, baritone, whose rich melodious voice fits in admirably with the harmonies of the other three members. The pianist is Sylvester Jones. Some of the numbers will be sung with banjo accompaniment.

Their repertoire is large and includes not only the popular colored songs of the south and the negro spirituals, in the rendition of which they are especially fine, but also selections from the classic libraries as well.

Hard to Find Meaning
in Noise of Insects

The plaintive love-song of the cricket, and all the other insect sounds that are heard on a summer night may have no meaning at all to the insects themselves.

Judged by human ears, the best insect musicians of today belong to rather primitive orders. The more advanced groups, such as ants, beetles, flies and butterflies, make no sounds that we can hear, or else, at most, only sounds that seem to us to be nothing more than faint squeaks, buzzes, hums, or clicks. Whether the insects themselves hear these sounds has not been determined beyond doubt. It should be remembered that, in man's affairs at least, many sounds are made without intention, and even contrary to desire—for example, sneezing and snoring.

If the sounds made by insects are merely incidental to friction between parts of their body, then these sounds have no biological significance, except as they may betray the insect to its enemies.

Useful Wedding Present

"Didn't know you had a boy, Mr. Dash," commented the hardware man smiling as his customer and his father selected a complete set of carving tools, choosing for the most part the implements of the wood set and light set sizes.

"None," agreed the customer, "this is a wedding present."

"Are you joking?"

"Not a bit of it. My daughter's getting married. And I thought she'd like for a present and she told me a tool chest. Keeping her for herself, she claims, she is going to have the equipment to do her own odd jobs without using the poker for a hammer, the saw for a saw, and her husband's razor blade for a jackknife."

Ages Old

MISS B. SHACKELFORD

The flint arrowhead held by Mrs. James B. Shackelford, found in the Gobi desert, is believed to be 10,000 years old, fashioned before the cave-men existed. It was picked up by the Roy Chapman Andrews expedition.

Niagara Falls

The water that flows over Niagara has flowed from the four great lakes and the hundreds of rivers that flow into them, more than one-half of the fresh water of the world, according to the authorities. The fact that evaporation and precipitation in the form of rain and snow are continually going on in the enormous areas of the Great Lakes region renders it unlikely that the Great lakes will ever be drained in this manner.

The Test of Character

There is something finer than to do right against our inclinations, and that is to have an inclination to do right. There is something nobler than virtuous endurance, and that is joyful endurance. The mark of virtue is not measured by its disagreeableness, but by its sweetness to the heart that loves it. The real test of character is joy. For what you rejoice in, that you love. For what you love, that you are like. —Henry Van Dyke.

MOSUL, A STORM CENTER

Pontoon Bridge Across the Tigris at Mosul.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

MOSUL Iraq (or Mesopotamia), near which thousands of Turkish troops have been massed—supposedly to make more potent Turkey's objection to any decision by the League of Nations against her claim to the region—has been a storm center ever since the close of the World war. The vilayet or province of Mosul was a part of Turkey, as were the vilayets of Bagdad and Basra, which without question are now included in the new state of Iraq. But the Turks have been unwilling to have all of the province of Mosul carved from their old territory, and they have been particularly insistent that no land north of the old Mosul line be included.

The dispute as to the sovereignty of territory near Mosul has been supposedly between Turkey and Iran, but in reality it has been between Turkey and Great Britain, which holds a mandate over Iraq from the League of Nations. The British have taken little part in the government of the new state, but they consider the latter under their protection and have pushed its claims as well as their own in the transactions before the league looking to a decision on a permanent boundary. In December, 1924, the council of the league established a provisional boundary which both claimants were to respect. Later the league's commissioners went personally to the disputed territory to gather information on which to base a permanent decision. It was the recent charge by Great Britain that the temporary boundary had been violated by the Turks that brought matters to a head.

The presence of petroleum in the Mosul region has always been a factor in the diplomatic moves, but it has been religious questions that have often caused actual conflicts in the neighborhood. The unruly Kurds have been a third factor in the complex situation.

Ethnographic maps show that the region of the oil fields, except for a scattering of Chaldeans around Mosul city, is solidly settled by Kurds. It is their country, and though the Kurds do not appear at the conferences in European health resorts, where the maps are made, they are always on the spot and ready to fight for their country when an invasion starts.

In the past the Kurds held only the loosest control over these fierce fighters. When the new rulers came to take possession of what was their on the map, the Kurds fought back.

Desultory fighting has been going on since 1920. Nominally, the fields are in Mesopotamia. The Mesopotamians are not much interested in oil and less interested in fighting with the Kurds. All of the fighting on their side, ostensibly for the integrity of this new Mesopotamia, has been by the British air force.

Nestorians the Bufferers.

But whether the surface fighting or marauding has been by Turks or Kurds, the now wholly innocuous Nestorian Christians have been the chief sufferers. The boundary decision, incidentally, may mean life or death to these people, who until the World war had held on to their mountain fastnesses north of Mosul—and to their faith—for nineteen centuries.

In the days of Marco Polo and for some centuries previous, the Assyrian or Nestorian Christians represented a mighty church spread throughout Asia. The mother church was very strong in Mesopotamia and Persia, and thriving relations and communities of converts existed in Tartary, Siberia, Mongolia, China and India. Twenty-five or more bishops are listed in the church records of that age. Over this strong Christian church ruled the "Patriarch of the East" with his see in Mesopotamia.

While most other divisions of Christianity have grown stronger and stronger, here is the unusual situation of a once mighty Christian church which has all but disappeared. The Western world has decided to call these Christians "Nestorians." They prefer to be known as "Assyrian Christians." There is still a further confusion of names, for a group of the Assyrians who have accepted the tenets and government of the Roman Catholic church are termed "Chaldean Christians." In support of their objection to "Nestorian," the Assyrians explain that the famous Nestorius, patriarch of Constantinople in 428, who was excommunicated on a charge of heresy, followed them rather than they Nestorius.

The heart of the Eastern Church remained in Mesopotamia, the patriarch having his headquarters first at Seleucia, the Greek capital which grew up after Alexander's conquests. When Mesopotamia fell into the hands of the Mohammedan Arabs, the Eastern Christians were permitted to carry on their organization without persecution. They were the learned people of the country and, like the Copts of Egypt, but to a much greater extent, filled the professions and many positions of trust.

They Taught the Arabs.

It was from the educated Assyrian Christians and their famous schools at Edessa, Seleucia, and elsewhere that the Arabs absorbed the learning which made their capitals in Asia, Africa and Spain centers of culture, which in large part passed on to the West. Numerous important Greek manuscripts were saved to the world through the translations of Nestorian scholars.

With the rise of the Bagdad caliphs the seat of the patriarch of the East was moved to that brilliant Mohammedan capital where it existed under a sort of patronage of the caliphs. This seemingly queer arrangement was directly paralleled later when the patriarch of the Greek Orthodox church maintained his seat in the new Mohammedan capital, Constantinople.

The golden age of Nestorianism came to an end with the invasion of Mesopotamia by the hordes from Tartary and Mongolia when Bagdad fell to Hulagu Khan, and later when Tamerlane overran the country the Assyrian Christians were persecuted and massacred. The remainder fled to the mountain fastnesses of Assyria, and in 1850 more than 100,000 of them lived in the rough highlands of the northern part of the vilayet of Mosul and in the southern part of the vilayet of Van, extending also across the Persian border to Lake Urmiah. The Kurds, who since long before Xenophon's day lived all about this Assyrian province, looked upon the Assyrians as enemies and often clashed with them on the borders; but they rated the fighting prowess of the mountain Christians highly, and for centuries did not dare invade their strongholds. During the latter part of the Nineteenth century and the early part of the Twentieth, however, Kurds and Turks began treating the Assyrians like the Armenians. Whole villages, especially in the foothills near Mosul, were pillaged and many of their inhabitants massacred.

During the World war the Assyrian Christians threw in their lot with the allies when the armies of the latter reached their country. When the Turks overran the region again the unhappy Assyrians met the fate of their Armenian fellow Christians to the north. Thousands were massacred and the rest fled. A handful escaped northward to the Caucasus, while the main body of survivors, probably fewer than ten thousand, reached the plains of Iraq where refugee camps were established for them by the British. Over this insignificant remnant of a once powerful church the youthful "patriarch" now nominally rules.

Interesting to Students.

The "Nestorians" or "Assyrians" are of great interest to students of religion and history because their isolation from the rest of Christendom is believed to have preserved their religion in its ancient form. They are believed to represent more closely than any other existing sect the rites and views of the Christians of the first few centuries after Christ. The tenet that caused them to break away from the Western church in 429 was their belief in regard to the double nature of Christ—man and God. Their churches are simple but sturdy structures. Some of those in the Assyrian mountains have been in use for 1,400 years. Services are conducted in the ancient Syriac language.

The patriarchs of the Assyrians must be unmarried. They are chosen from the same family, a brother, nephew or cousin of the patriarch succeeding. This custom has brought about the anomalous situation of mere children being elected to a position usually thought of as the prerogative of a graybeard. The patriarch always takes the name Shimon or Simon. He never takes a meat.

Among the interesting traditions of the Nestorians are that they are descendants of the Ten Lost Tribes of Israel; that the Magi went from the Persian part of their homeland; and that they were converted to Christianity by the Apostles Thomas, Matthew and Thaddaeus.

Y. W. Girls Hear Of Amendments

There was, as usual, a splendid attendance at the Wednesday evening supper at the Y. W. C. A., Miss Salzmann, the new chairman of the committee presiding. At the close of the excellent supper, Miss Salzmann announced, that as it was voted at the last supper to have a real Business Girls' Club at the Y. W. C. A., she had appointed the following committees: Social committee, Mrs. Gratia Millard, chairman; Miss Gladys Hopper, Miss Lena Kohler, Miss Jean Castor, Miss Annetta Wheeler, Miss Bees Short, Miss Harriet Manner. Service committee: Miss Dorothy Kennedy, chairman; Miss Ella Humphrey, Miss Marjorie Myer, Miss Hazel Dutton, Miss Marie Hopper, Miss Ruth Bell, Miss Marjorie Zelle. Social service committee: Miss Ethel Salzmann, chairman; Miss Ruth Glendinning, Miss Sylvia Montvran, Miss Dorothy Wright, Miss Margaret Wilmoth, Miss Helen Schwall, Miss Emily Hoyerstadt. Membership committee: Miss Carrie Herrmann, chairman; Miss Elsie Boyce, Miss Mildred Bruce, Miss Mary Kyer, Miss Alice Toole, Miss Ruth Bell, Miss Evelyn Dolson. Program committee: Miss Joe Goodsell, chairman; Miss Mae Perkins, Miss Alma Tyler, Miss Lillian Herdman, Miss Katherine Millard, Miss Ruth Scott, Miss Helen Haulenbeck.

The speaker of the evening was Mrs. Clara Norton Reed. Mrs. Reed before speaking announced that it was expected and hoped that Mr. Sheldon would be the guest of honor and speaker at the supper next Wednesday evening, and it was quite apparent from the enthusiasm over this announcement that there will be a large attendance.

Mrs. Reed, who was to speak on the amendments to be voted for, first made clear to the girls exactly how to mark a ballot, each sample being provided with several sample ballots so that all present might have a practical demonstration as to what they will be expected to do at the polling places next Tuesday. Mrs. Reed also explained to her audience that all were actual taxpayers, whether they paid taxes directly for property owned or through renting a home or place of business and whenever they made a purchase of anyone owning property and paying a direct tax for the same. Under those circumstances, it was plain that everyone should have an interest in the government of city, country, state and nation, all of which branches of our government are supported financially by those same taxes. Mrs. Reed then spent some little time in explaining the four amendments so soon to be voted for, not from a partisan viewpoint, and she was paid the due compliment of a very attentive audience. Already the Y. W. C. A. girls showed marked evidence of preparations under way for the big Halloween party on Friday night to which the older girls of the Y. W. C. A. are looking forward so eagerly.

Millions of Idle Money

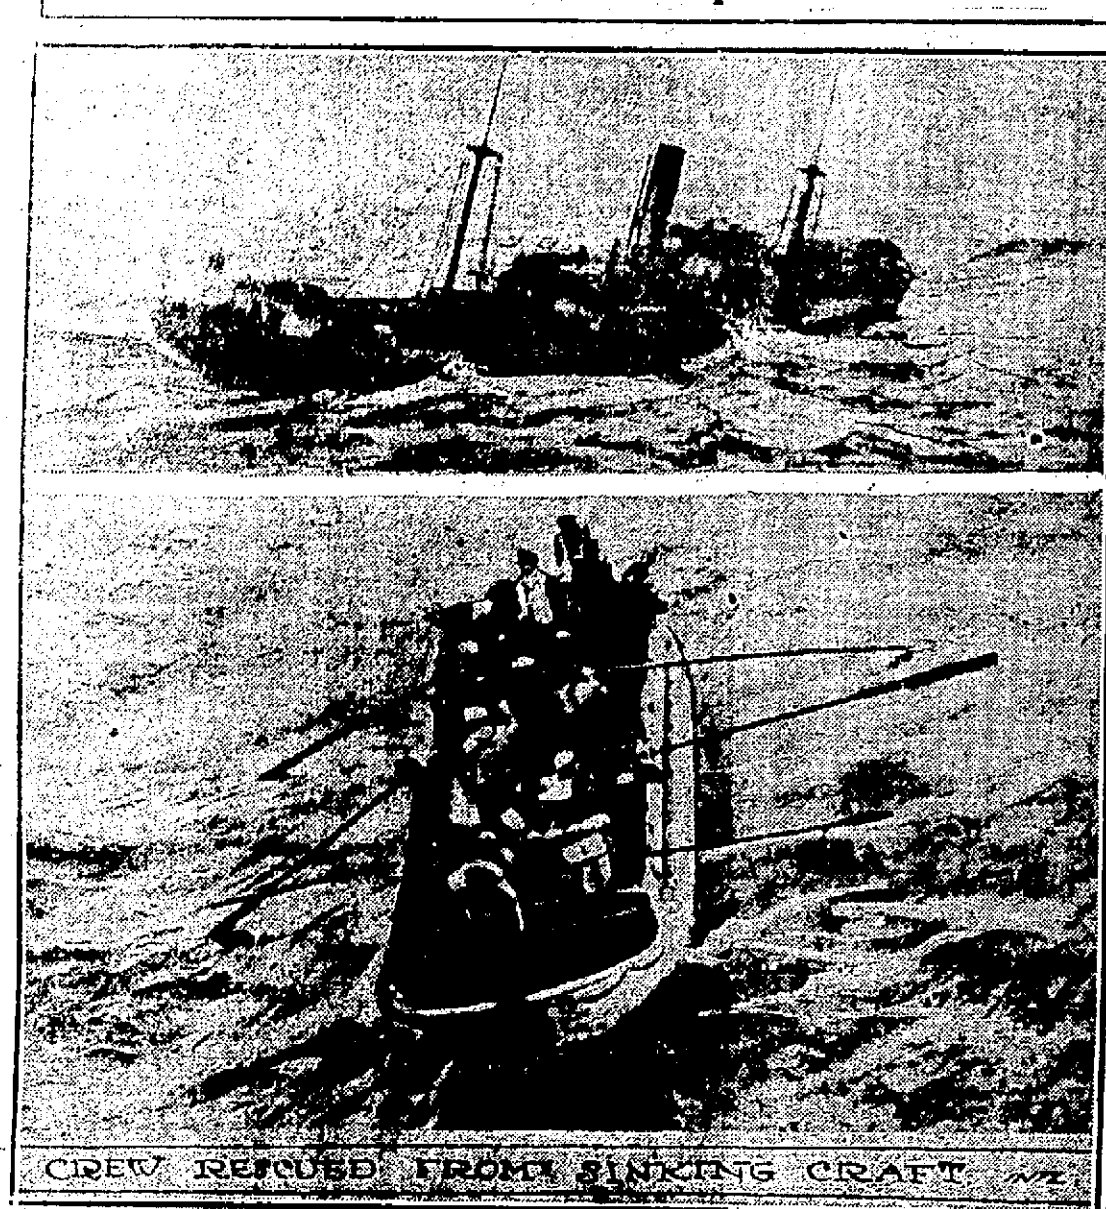

There are, it is estimated by the actuary of the United States treasury, something more than 8,000 millionaires in this country, who are hoarding and keeping out of circulation more than $400,000,000, none of which is earning a dollar.

Contrast the miserly waste of money with the good which is being done with the $331,000,000 owned by the 65 leading colleges of the United States.

From their investments these colleges derive an annual income of about $27,000,000. Assuming that the smaller colleges not included in this list of 65 larger centers of education have an annual income of only $12,000,000 from their invested funds, we arrive at the annual educational fund of $40,000,000. This divided among the 380,000 students of both sexes in all the universities and colleges allows about $100 a year per student.

By making this money work, still other contributions are made to the wealth and progress of the country.—Thrifty Magazine.

MOSUL, A STORM CENTER

Pontoon Bridge Across the Tigris at Mosul.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

MOSUL Iraq (or Mesopotamia), near which thousands of Turkish troops have been massed—supposedly to make more potent Turkey's objection to any decision by the League of Nations against her claim to the region—has been a storm center ever since the close of the World war. The vilayet or province of Mosul was a part of Turkey, as were the vilayets of Bagdad and Basra, which without question are now included in the new state of Iraq. But the Turks have been unwilling to have all of the province of Mosul carved from their old territory, and they have been particularly insistent that no land north of the old Mosul line be included.

The dispute as to the sovereignty of territory near Mosul has been supposedly between Turkey and Iran, but in reality it has been between Turkey and Great Britain, which holds a mandate over Iraq from the League of Nations. The British have taken little part in the government of the new state, but they consider the latter under their protection and have pushed its claims as well as their own in the transactions before the league looking to a decision on a permanent boundary. In December, 1924, the council of the league established a provisional boundary which both claimants were to respect. Later the league's commissioners went personally to the disputed territory to gather information on which to base a permanent decision. It was the recent charge by Great Britain that the temporary boundary had been violated by the Turks that brought matters to a head.

The presence of petroleum in the Mosul region has always been a factor in the diplomatic moves, but it has been religious questions that have often caused actual conflicts in the neighborhood. The unruly Kurds have been a third factor in the complex situation.

Ethnographic maps show that the region of the oil fields, except for a scattering of Chaldeans around Mosul city, is solidly settled by Kurds. It is their country, and though the Kurds do not appear at the conferences in European health resorts, where the maps are made, they are always on the spot and ready to fight for their country when an invasion starts.

In the past the Kurds held only the loosest control over these fierce fighters. When the new rulers came to take possession of what was their on the map, the Kurds fought back.

Desultory fighting has been going on since 1920. Nominally, the fields are in Mesopotamia. The Mesopotamians are not much interested in oil and less interested in fighting with the Kurds. All of the fighting on their side, ostensibly for the integrity of this new Mesopotamia, has been by the British air force.

Nestorians the Sufferers.

But whether the surface fighting or marauding has been by Turks or Kurds, the now wholly innocuous Nestorian Christians have been the chief sufferers. The boundary decision, incidentally, may mean life or death to these people, who until the World war had held on to their mountain fastnesses north of Mosul—and to their faith—for nineteen centuries.

In the days of Marco Polo and for some centuries previous, the Assyrian or Nestorian Christians represented a mighty church spread throughout Asia. The mother church was very strong in Mesopotamia and Persia, and thriving missions and communities of converts existed in Tartary, Siberia, Mongolia, China and India. Twenty-five or more bishops are listed in the church records of that age. Over this strong Christian church ruled the "Patriarch of the East" with his see in Mesopotamia.

While most other divisions of Christianity have grown stronger and stronger, here is the unusual situation of a once mighty Christian church which has all but disappeared. The Western world has decided to call these Christians "Nestorians." They prefer to be known as "Assyrian Christians." There is still a further confusion of names, for a group of the Assyrians who have accepted the tenets and government of the Roman Catholic church are termed "Chaldean Christians." In support of their objection to "Nestorian," the Assyrians explain that the famous Nestorian, patriarch of Constantinople in 428, who was "communicated on a charge of heresy, followed them rather than they Nestorians.

Y. W. Girls Hear Of Amendments

There was, as usual, a splendid attendance at the Wednesday evening supper at the Y. W. C. A. Miss Salzmann, the new chairman of the committee presiding. At the close of the excellent supper, Miss Salzmann announced that as it was voted at the last supper to have a real Business Girl's Club at the Y. W. C. A., she had appointed the following committees: Social committee, Miss Gladys Hopper, Miss Lena Kohler, Miss Jean Cantor, Miss Annetta Wheeler, Miss Bess Short, Miss Harriet Misner. Service committee, Miss Dorothy Kennedy, chairman, Miss Ella Humphrey, Miss Marguerite Myer, Miss Hazel Dutton, Miss Marie Hopper, Miss Ruth Bell, Miss Marjorie Zelle. Social service committee, Miss Ethel Salzmann, chairman, Miss Ruth Glendenning, Miss Sylvia Mantlani, Miss Dorothy Kennedy, Miss Margaret Wilcott, Miss Helen Schwan, Miss Emily Hayward. Membership committee, Miss Carrie Herrmann, chairman, Miss Elsie Boyce, Miss Mildred Truole, Miss Mary Kyer, Miss Alice Truole, Miss Ruth Bell, Miss Evelyn Bolton. Program committee, Miss Jess Goodsell, chairman; Miss Mae Perkins, Miss Alma Tyler, Miss Lilian Herdman, Miss Katherine Millard, Miss Ruth Scott, Miss Helen Haulenbeck.

The speaker of the evening was Mrs. Clara Norton Reed. Mrs. Reed before speaking announced that it was expected and hoped that Mr. Sheldon would be the guest of honor and speaker at the supper next Wednesday evening, and it was quite apparent from the enthusiasm over this announcement that there will be a large attendance.

Mrs. Reed, who was to speak on the amendments to be voted for, first made clear to the girls exactly how to mark a ballot, each table being provided with several sample ballots so that all present might have a practical demonstration as to what they will be expected to do at the polling places next Tuesday. Mrs. Reed also explained to her audience that all were actual taxpayers, whether they paid taxes directly for property owned or through renting a home or place of business and whenever they made a purchase of anyone owning property and paying a direct tax for the same. Under those circumstances, it was plain that everyone should have an interest in the government of city, county, state and nation, all of which branches of our government are supported financially by those same taxes. Mrs. Reed then spent some little time in explaining the four amendments so soon to be voted for, not from a partisan viewpoint, and she was paid the high compliment of a very attentive audience. Already the Y. W. C. A. Gym showed marked evidence of preparations under way for the big Halloween party on Friday night to which the older girls of the Y. W. C. A. are looking forward so eagerly.

Millions of Idle Money

There are, it is estimated by the actuary of the United States treasury, something more than 6,000 millionaires in this country, who are hoarding and keeping out of circulation more than $400,000,000, none of which is earning a dollar.

Contrast the miserly waste of money with the good which is being done with the $331,000,000 owned by the 65 leading colleges of the United States.

From their investments these colleges derive an annual income of about $27,000,000. Assuming that the smaller colleges not included in this list of 65 larger centers of education have an annual income of only $12,000,000 from their invested funds, we arrive at the annual educational fund of $40,000,000. This divided among the 380,000 students of both sexes in all the universities and colleges allows about $100 a year per student.

By making this money work, still other contributions are made to the wealth and progress of the country.—Thrill Magazine.

STUCK WITH STUCCO!

For many weeks the people of Kingston watched the work of chipping and chiseling the Rosendale Cement from the County Building, Fair and Main streets, Kingston. They wondered why this hard, flint like cement was being removed.

Then they saw Stucco being put on. And again they wondered and wondered and finally concluded that they were being Stuck With Stucco.

Then they commenced to wonder who was responsible for the job, and why it was being done, what it was going to cost, who was doing the work and why, and whether or not all contractors of city or county had had an opportunity to bid on the work.

No information was forthcoming, until a meeting of the Board of Supervisors was held on Tuesday evening, October 27. Questioning by Democratic supervisors then brought County Attorney John W. Eckert to his feet, explaining:

First—That the work had been ordered by the County Board of Auditors.

Second—That no resolution setting forth the necessity for such work had been passed by the Board of Supervisors.

Third—That the work had been given to a builder, not under a contract, but by Days' Work, let the days be as numerous as might be.

Fourth—That this Board of Auditors were in supreme control of County Buildings and County Property, that they need answer to no one until the annual meeting of the Board of Supervisors.

Fifth—That this Board of Auditors need not be composed of members of the Board of Supervisors.

Sixth—That the cost would be something over $4,750.

The Board of Auditors in this instance is composed of three men, Silas S. Auchmoedy, Supervisor of the Town of Rosendale, where was made the cement that was chiseled off the building; William E. Avery, Supervisor of the Town of Hardenbergh, and Charles Snyder, Supervisor of the Twelfth Ward, Kingston. All three are Republicans.

The people now have an illuminating illustration of the manner in which the Republican Machine, controlling the Board of Supervisors of the County, works. And this, on the authority of County Attorney John W. Eckert and Secretary of the Republican County Committee, concededly an authority.

How do the people of city and county like it?

Do not the real citizens who are not controlled by the Republican Machine, feel there should be a change in the methods that are in vogue?

The way to bring about a change is to vote for Democratic candidates for Supervisor. A vote for a Republican candidate is a vote for the continuance of the methods that obtain today, a vote of approval of the Domination of all offices and all departments of the county by this machine, even the domination of the affairs of the towns of the county.

County Treasurer Gives Bank Deposit Figures

Charges Political Attempt to Mislead Voters by Publication of Incorrect Records—How County Funds Are Deposited—All Funds First Go In One General Depository—Under Republican Treasurer, County Gets Interest.

To the Citizens of Ulster County.

Monday morning, Honorable John G. Van Etten came to the County Treasurer's office in my absence and without inquiring for me, or my deputy, demanded from the lady stenographer, then in the office, that she show him the bank deposits made by me in the several banks of the county.

Last night's issue of The Freeman contained a political advertisement entitled "To Public Opinion," which sets forth what purports to be the amount of deposits made by me in several banks, presumably based on the figures obtained by Mr. Van Etten, which figures, as stated in the political advertisement, are incorrect, incomplete and misleading, and it is quite apparent they were so intended to be.

The balances in the several banks of this county on January 1st, 1925, the deposits made by me from that date to now; the withdrawals on each of such banks and the present balances in the several banks in the county are as follows.

Name of Bank.	Balance on Jan. 1, 1925	Deposits since Jan. 1, 1925	Withdrawals since Jan. 1, 1925	Present Balances
Kingston Trust Co. (over draft).....	$ 2,866.62	$1,378.40	$1,336.99	$2,908.03

Rondout National Bank, (General Fund).....	8,037.80		8,037.80
Rondout National Bank, (Highway Funds).....		12,000.00		12,000.00
National Ulster County Bank, (General Funds).....	10,864.93	6,494.46	15,359.39	2,000.00
National Ulster County Bank, (Court and Trust Funds).....	39,077.62	1,115.74	2,214.77	37,978.59
First National Bank of Rondout.....	7,048.51	15,578.79	12,627.20	10,000.00
State of New York National Bank, (Court and Trust Funds).....	1,796.67	14,865.05	14,633.27	2,028.45
First National Bank of Saugerties.....	16,074.51	15,000.00	31,074.51
Saugerties Bank.....	30,000.00	15,000.00	45,000.00
First National Bank of Marlborough.....		6,500.00	6,500.00
First National Bank of Milton.....		4,500.00	4,500.00
First National Bank of Highland.....	30,615.42	21,559.39	40,174.81	12,000.00
Huguenot National Bank, (New Paltz).....	355.68	28,935.45	29,291.13
First National Bank of Ellenville.....	13,441.39	27,003.12	40,444.51
Home National Bank of Ellenville.....	10,000.00		10,000.00
Wallkill National Bank.....	12,503.66	14,989.40	27,493.06
Kerhonkson National Bank.....	8,040.01	11,216.88	19,256.89

In addition to the above deposits the county clerk has made the following deposits in banks:

Kingston Trust Company (clerk's receipts).....	$10,341.16
State of New York National Bank (auto license fees).....	221,895.79
State of New York National Bank (mortgage tax receipts).....	25,225.67

The Kingston Trust Company is used by me as a clearing house for all funds coming into my hands. That is, all moneys payable to me as county treasurer or received by me are immediately deposited in the Kingston Trust Company, and are then checked out to the other banks where deposits are kept. This accounts for the greater amount of deposits in the Kingston Trust Company than in other banks. Furthermore, it is necessary to have one bank in which there is a substantial balance at all times to meet drafts by the Highway Department for county highway construction and other large items. Beginning about September 1st, the drafts on the county treasurer's office are most heavy and it is then that we commence to draw down on the balances in the various depositories, and until taxes are again collected, these balances must of necessity be small.

I desire also, to call to Judge Van Etten's attention and to that of the public, that the Democratic incumbents of the office of county treasurer never collected any interest on county deposits, while I am requiring each bank to pay three per cent (3%) interest on all monthly balances, which interest thus far this year amounts to $9,591.96, a substantial item to the county.

If, in the future, the Honorable John G. Van Etten, or any other person desires to obtain any details or figures concerning my office, I request that he, or they show me the courtesy by applying to me personally rather than to the office lady stenographer who is in no way responsible for the policy or conduct of the office of county treasurer. I have the honor to be the incumbent of that office, as the choice of the people of Ulster county, and I unhesitatingly assume the responsibilities for the conduct of that office.

Dated, October 27th, 1925.

WILLIAM H. VAN ETEN, County Treasurer.

Weekly Meeting Of Hi-Y Club

Considerable interest is being taken in the Hi-Y Club by the local high school students as was shown Wednesday evening when an unusual number of boys turned out for the weekly supper and program at the local Y. M. C. A.

The members were equally rewarded as the Rev. Lucas Boeve, D. D., pastor of the First Reformed Church, was the speaker chosen for the evening.

Dr. Boeve's topic was "Winning our best victories." Mingled with several incidents from the lives of characters of the Bible and delivered in a manner which makes such talks interesting, the speaker brought out many impressive thoughts based on one's character. He spoke of not only physical victories but moral victories as well. He showed the value of overcoming selfish ideals and of the great advantage of having whole command of one's self, morally as well as physically.

The members greatly appreciated Dr. Boeve's talk and invited him to attend the meetings and speak at a later date.

Wood Used for Type

Hard maple is used to a far greater extent than any other species for wood type. Maple is very hard and dense, and stands up well under severe treatment. It also "stays put" after being cut to final form. For electrotypes backing and wood engraving cherry has in the past been very largely used, but due to the scarcity of this wood others are being substituted.

Amazing Appetite

Large animals have the advantage in water. A man coming out of his bath carries one pound of water with him. A mouse coming out would carry its own weight, while a fly in similar circumstances would be loaded with 60 times its weight. Small animals have to have more food because the heart has to do relatively more work. A mouse thus eats one-third of its own weight every day.

The City of David

Prof. R. A. S. Macalister, describing recently the work carried on at the eastern hills to the south of Jerusalem, said that there was no doubt of the existence of the city of David at the site of the present city. They had, however, discovered the bottom portions of the walls of the city that David had taken from the Jebusites. Although it was not clear to the line before the work was completed, they had found indications that pointed to a spot in the northern wall being that which David breached when he took the city, subsequently surrounded with a wall that he built to cover the damage, and finally properly repaired by Solomon.

A strong bastion, with walls over twelve feet thick, indicated that it might be the tower from which the Jebusites mocked David, saying that only blind men and cripples would be necessary to build the walls against him. The excavations also had brought to light other things which illustrated or amplified Biblical references to David. The work was as yet far from complete, only about an acre of ground having been taken, but sufficient had been done to show very attractive possibilities in its completion.

As She Understood It

After the usual Saturday tramp the children gathered in the drawing room for some music.

An bedtime story near the mother said: "Now, children, choose a hymn to finish up with and then you must all say good night."

"Let's have 'O God, Our Father, Hallowed be Thy Name,'" said a little girl of seven.

"Well, I think that would be more suitable for tomorrow night," replied the mother.

"Oh, but you always say our Sabbath hymn on Saturdays," said the child.

The food sale of Hope Temple, No. 60, Pythian Sisters, will be held at Splendor's Garage Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

The Port Ewen Library Association expresses its thanks and appreciation to all those who loaned tables, chairs and other necessary articles for the successful card party held last Monday evening at the library, also to those who gave their personal services. The ladies were very pleasing to those whose fortune favored, and everyone enjoyed the evening.

Imperial Not Substituting.

City Editor, Kingston Daily Freeman: In connection with news item appearing in your paper of October 28th wherein it was stated that the Royal Entertainers have cancelled their engagement to play for the Ahavath Israel Ball to be held at the Knights of Columbus Hall, on October 29th and that the Imperial Orchestra has been substituted to play in this place; I wish to advise that this statement is incorrect. The Imperial Orchestra is not substituting for the Royal Entertainers. In order to be assured of first class music for this engagement and wishing to make the affair a big success, the committee in charge engaged the Imperial Orchestra for this affair.

JACK LANG
Director, Imperial Orchestra.

Suitor Action to Word

The accused man appeared before the justice of the peace, accompanied by his attorney. After the defendant had told his story, the old justice of the peace cleared his throat, spat a stream of tobacco juice on the floor, and, looking sharply over his reading specs, in a commanding voice: "You teller you are sentenced to a year in the pen."

"But your honor," objected the defendant's young attorney, "you have no authority to sentence a man to the penitentiary."

"That was something the justice had failed to take into account. 'I know I ain't,'" he replied. "But I've already done it."—Minneapolis News.

Get a Good Start

A good breathing exercise taken in the morning by an open window will give you a good start for the day. Standing with feet together and hands stretched above head, bend back slowly at waist, expelling all air from lungs. Next come forward, inhaling, and bring arms down in a wide circle to your sides. Repeat a dozen or more times, as you see fit.

New York, Oct. 29. — Bullish demonstrations in the principal market stocks today furnished the basis for another aggressive upswing in stock prices, which gradually spread to remote sections of the market.

Chrysler covered another ten point span in its sensational upward movement, making a total gain of about 40 points since Monday.

Shortly after the noon period, reports reached the speculative district that Studebaker directors, will increase the dividend to $5 from $1.4 share, and that stock advanced in heavy trading to a new high record price at 64 1/2.

Graduating from the curb to the big board today, Pan-American Western blazed a wide trail across the oil stock list and jumped ten points to around 47.

Speculation in industrial and "specialty" stocks was encouraged by the continuance of favorable industrial reports and dividend developments which extended today to the railroad companies.

Most of the mercantile, independent steel, copper, equipment and specialty stocks which have been active and buoyant since Monday, attained a higher range of market values today with increases of from 1 to 15 points.

Woolworth at 230 was up 25 points from Saturday's close. Atlantic Coast Line was a brilliant leader in the railroad stocks, with an advance to a new high at 203.

Cotton prices declined when trade buying support was withdrawn, and grain prices were also irregular.

Late in London

In London it is impossible to ignore the fact that you are late. The self-righteous hands of clocks point out your guilt whichever way you look. Your eye and your ear are accused on every side. You long for the courteous clocklessness of the country; there, mercifully, the sun neither ticks nor strikes, nor cavils at the minutes. — Stella Benson, in "This Is the End."

The latest answer to Fashion's Demand

Modern youth with its rush and bustle welcomes the simplicity of this new undergarment for all underneath. Scanties means only one article to put on—one to take off, for it is a brassiere, a vest, a girdle, garters and panties all in one garment.

Hook it up the side and in a second you are completely dressed underneath—and your figure is fashioned to a new perfection.

Women now wearing Scanties say it's the most comfortable, easy flexible way they have ever dressed. You must see it to understand why.

Scanties weigh but a scant eight ounces.

There is only one pair of shoulder straps instead of the usual three or four.

On display in our brassiere department.

Painleve Cabinet Is More Radical

Premier Painleve Announced His
New Cabinet Today—Georges
Bonnet Is Appointed Minister of
The Budget, a New Portfolio.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Paris, Oct. 29.—Premier Painleve announced his new cabinet today.

While in many respects the new cabinet resembles the one dissolved on Tuesday, it has a decidedly more radical flavor and is apparently intended to meet demands from radical and Socialist deputies for a financial policy in keeping with their views.

Premier Painleve besides heading the cabinet has himself taken on the difficult portfolio of finance minister.

A new portfolio has been created —minister of the budget. This position will be held by Georges Bonnet and will remove some of the burdens of the finance ministry from the shoulders of the premier.

The new Painleve cabinet is as follows:

Premier, Paul Painleve.
Minister of finance, Paul Painleve.
Minister of foreign affairs, Aristide Briand.
Minister of justice, M. Chaumpe-
de.
Minister of interior, M. Schrameck.
Minister of war, M. Daladier.
Minister of marine, M. Berel.
Minister of agriculture, M. Durand.
Minister of public works, M. De Mondie.
Minister of public instruction,
M. Delbos.
Minister of pensions, M. Antonic.
Minister of commerce, M. Vincent.
Minister of labor, M. Dorraeur.
Minister of colonies, M. Perrier.
Minister of liberated regions, M.
Scmidt.
Minister of budget, M. Georges Bonnet.

The chief surprise in the cabinet is the inclusion of M. De Mondie, formerly the Herriot finance minister. It is expected that the finance will represent Herriot's financial views in the cabinet.

Other portfolios are unchanged except for the ministry of war and the ministry of colonies.
M. Bonnet, the new minister of budget, has been under secretary of state in the grim minister's office.

Murderer Was Boss of Prison

Governor Brewster of Maine Suspends Twenty-one Prison Officers
After His Alleged Discovery That
"Lifer" Was Master Within the Prison Walls.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Thomaston, Maine, Oct. 29.—State highway police were guarding the state prison here today as Governor Ralph O. Brewster and his executive council began hearings into charges of vice, gambling, drugs, liquor and riot among the inmates.

Twenty-one prison officers were suspended from duty after Governor
Brewster is alleged to have discovered that Daniel R. Fallon, a murderer serving a life sentence, was "a dictator" within the prison walls.

A group of convicts, selected by Fallon is alleged to have directed discipline
under a prison reform plan mapped out by Charles H. Hitchborn, an Augusta banker and member of the state prison commission. Hitchborn is said to have become deeply interested in the prison reform methods of Thomas Mott Osborne.

Twenty-one affidavits were presented to Governor Brewster and his council concerning the alleged convict rule.

Charges in the affidavits of discrimination against Protestants injected the Klan issue into the attention with Warden Lester Dison lined up against Lawrence J. Colgan, a deputy warden.

Among the charges probed today
by Governor Brewster and his council were these:
That Fallon and his group ordered prison officials about; that assaults within the prison walls are frequent; that women prisoners in solitary have been attacked by men prisoners; that narcotics and liquor were used in the prison; that prisoners were allowed to climb over the prison walls in the evening and return after spending a night in vice dens in Rockland; that prisoners were allowed to practice jumping from the prison walls in preparation for escapes; that much gambling went on in the prison; that Fallon stabbed another prisoner who refused to obey him; and that liquor parties were staged inside the prison.

Complainants seek the removal of the entire prison commission, the warden and the deputy warden.

Police is said to play an impor-

"MILKMAINE REPORTER"

BACK WITH HIS BRIDE.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 29.—
Theodore Joseph Mayer, 25 year old "milkmaine reporter" missing since he fled from Los Angeles after a startling 12 days romance with Sandra Brush, 17 year old San Francisco co-ed, who was taken from his arms
by her parents, and for whose love he swallowed police, slashed his wrist and was sworn to be insane, is at the side of his bride again today.

The young man, grandson of Theodore A. Hazenmeyer, New York magistrate and a nephew of Rear Admiral Wilson, U. S. N., of Newport,
R. I., was discovered by authorities last yesterday registered as a "special student in journalism" at Stanford University, Palo Alto, near San Francisco, where Miss Brush is also a student.

Mayer declared he had been in Palo Alto since October first "just to be near Sandra." Mayer and Miss Brush were married in Santa Ana on September 22 after an elopement from San Bernardino. Later the marriage was annulled, Miss Brush is the daughter of a mountain in-keeper.

"Sandra's parents don't object to me," Mayer said today. "But they think she is too young to be a wife."

The young man declared he and Miss Brush would probably re-marry shortly after her 18th birthday, next November 20.

Miss Brush confirmed Mayer's statement that they would be remarried.
Mayer is a Harvard graduate and has been married once before. He was divorced from his first wife, Marine Y. Mayer, August 2, 1924.
